Space Cooperation Plan Offered By U.S.

Soviets Ignore Broad Program For U.N. Control

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP)—The United States outlined a program Monday for cooperation and control in outer space through the United Nations. The Soviet Union ignored it and hinted it would not discuss the problem except on its own terms.

"The time is ripe for certain initial measures to preserve peace in outer space—and extend to all nations the benefits of exploring it," the U.S. delegate, Charles W. Yost, told a U.N. committee on the peaceful uses of outer space. This was the first meeting held by the committee since the General Assembly expanded its membership from 18 to 24 nations two years ago and directed it to plan an international conference on space science.

Reds Balk At Conference

The seven Communist members had refused to attend. The Communists, backed by spectacular Soviet advances in outer space, want a reorganization of the committee along lines of the troika—equal representation by Communist, neutralist and Western nations.

The committee's life expires at the end of this year, and Yost said the United States will try to have the assembly renew its mandate so it can start work on U.S. proposals.

The proposals:

1. Acknowledge that international law and the U.N. charter extend to outer space; recognize that all celestial bodies are open to exploration by all countries and "not subject to national appropriation."

2. Set up a central registry of space through the United Nations to record all space launchings and satellites. The information would be forwarded to the office by member governments and be available to other nations on request.

Zorin Insists On Veto

3. Share the information from weather satellites to improve forecasting techniques through the World Meteorological Organization, a U.N. affiliate. Yost called this one of the "practical applications of outer space technology."

4. Study the use of earth satellites to improve communications, with stress on helping underdeveloped nations. Yost suggested that the 1963 space conference of the International Telecommunications Union, another U.N. affiliate, take up this problem.

Valerian A. Zorin of the Soviet Union, who spoke after Yost, did not refer to the American program. He devoted most of his speech to the composition and procedures of the committee.

He insisted on "just representation of all three groups of states" and unanimous agreement on all the committee's decisions. This would mean that a veto by any group could stop the committee's work. The West wants decisions taken by majority vote.

One Survives, Three Missing In B47 Crash

PLATTSBURGH, N. Y. (UPI)—A B47 six-jet Air Force plane crashed and burned while attempting an emergency landing at Plattsburgh Air Force Base Monday night as another of the $2 million bombers barely made it to the field with two engines out.

One crewman was found in the wreckage five miles short of the base and taken to a hospital where he was listed in fair condition.

A search was launched for the other three crewmen who were believed to have bailed out. The scene was about two miles west of Lake Champlain, and light snow was falling.

The second jet skidded directly over its ill-fated sister ship to make a landing on four engines.

Anxious Moment

Ned Nuss, 16-year-old president of the Topeka (Kan.) Rocket Society, looks apprehensively into the recovered nose cone of his rocket, the NU-4, which carried a white mouse named George aloft over Topeka. Moments later, when George moved, Ned and the other 14 members of the amateur rocket group let out a whoop of joy. Nine months before, another white mouse launched by the boys died in an explosion of the second stage at 3,000 feet. George was reported doing fine yesterday.

Rockefeller Makes Last-Ditch Search Of Jungle For Son

Governor Expected To Head Home Today

PIRIMAPOEN, New Guinea (AP)—Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller, his face drawn and downcast as the first really hopeful clue faded, flew personally to this jungle search camp Monday in an apparent last-ditch effort to find his son.

The governor made the trip in a Catalina flying boat after a smoke, which raised hopes when it was spotted Sunday, turned out to be a native fire without connection to 23-year-old Michael. He has been missing since he tried to swim to shore from a capsized boat nine days ago.

The governor's flight over the steamy jungle was his second since his arrival last week and the first time he had landed near the waters in which Michael was last seen.

Gov. Rockefeller talked with various search leaders here and one of them told him: "We regret there's no news of Mike's whereabouts or even if he's alive."

Rockefeller and Michael's twin sister, Mary Rockefeller Strawbridge, are expected to head back to the United States Tuesday, leaving the search to be continued by the Dutch and hundreds of Papuan tribesmen. Their search of the crocodile and snake-infested wilderness is expected to go on for at least another month.

When he returned to Merak from his flight to Pirimapoen, Rockefeller told newsmen: "I saw nothing that would increase or decrease my hopes."

In Pirimapoen, the governor told Father Cornelius Van Kessel, the Dutch Roman Catholic priest, who is based here and who knew young Rockefeller: "You've been wonderful. You've done everything you could."

An Australian air force squadron leader, Kenneth McLaughlin, who is in charge of two Australian helicopters, told the governor they had checked 17 remote native villages without finding a trace of Michael. Patrol boats checked inland river settlements unreachable by air and also found nothing. Dutch officials said the helicopters will finish the jungle search Tuesday.

U.N. Troops Take Control Of Kindu

LEOPOLDVILLE, The Congo (UPI)—Ethiopian United Nations troops took over control of Kindu without resistance from the Congolese forces in Kivu Province town where 13 Italian airmen were massacred two weeks ago, a U.N. spokesman reported Monday.

Leaflets were distributed in Elisabethville Monday calling on 10,000 able-bodied Europeans to stand by for possible action against the United Nations. The leaflets were signed by a pseudonym, "Colonel Alain" which sources said appeared to be a pseudonym.

(President Moise Tshombe Sunday called on all blacks and whites in Katanga to prepare to fight to the death against any attempt by the United Nations to use force to end the secession of his province.)

Justice Dept. Asks Court Void Ford-Autolite Deal

DETROIT (AP)—The Justice Department asked U.S. District Court here Monday to strip Ford Motor Co. of the battery and spark plug business it bought last April for $28 million.

In a civil antitrust suit, the government sought to void a deal made by Ford with Electric Autolite Co., Toledo, Ohio, where Ford acquired the Autolite trade name; a spark plug plant at Fostoria, Ohio; a battery plant at Owosso, Mich., and much of the Autolite sales personnel.

Ford now operates an Autolite division selling to Ford dealers and independent outlets. The action came on the eve of a much larger merger already announced by Ford—acquisition of Philco Corp. Philco stockholders are to meet in Philadelphia Tuesday to approve a Ford proposal to take over the long-established appliance maker.

Ford bought the Autolite properties for cash. It proposes to exchange Ford stock for Philco. Although no price has been announced, observers estimate the over-all Philco cost, including liabilities, at about $145 million.

Ford's general counsel, William T. Gossett, said the court action came as a great surprise. "We are convinced that there is no sound basis for this attack," he said.

Gossett said further that before the deal Ford did not make spark plugs or batteries while its leading competitor (General Motors) makes both. He added Ford will continue to buy substantial quantities of batteries from outside suppliers.

Stevenson Blasts Russ Colonialism

Soviets Use Debate As Smoke Screen, U.S. Delegate Says

UNITED NATIONS (AP)—The U. N. General Assembly Monday night overwhelmingly approved an Asian-African resolution setting up a 17-nation committee to recommend steps for a speedy end to colonialism.

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP)—The United States declared Monday the Soviet Union is trying to prevent the United Nations from putting the spotlight on enslavement of millions of people behind the Iron Curtain.

Adlai E. Stevenson, chief U.S. delegate, asserted that is the reason the Soviet Union has tried to seize the initiative here on the colonial issue from the Asian-African nations.

He made the charges in a memorandum distributed to all 103 U.N. members as the General Assembly neared the voting stage in the climax to a long debate on colonialism.

Two Resolutions Offered

The United States is supporting an Asian-African resolution calling for establishment of a 17-nation committee which would work for implementation of a resolution approved last year calling for a speedy end to colonialism. It is regarded as certain to be approved.

A Soviet resolution calls for the end of colonialism everywhere by the end of 1962. Last year the assembly rejected a Soviet resolution on colonialism in favor of an Asian-African resolution on which the United States abstained.

Stevenson said the U.S. memorandum was issued in reply to Soviet attacks made on the West "in the most outrageous and misleading terms."

U.S. "Against Colonialism"

The U.S. position was summed up in these words: "The United States is against colonialism—wherever and whenever it occurs."

"The Soviet Union is fearful," the memorandum said, "that the solution of outstanding colonial problems involving the West will impel the United Nations to focus attention on the situation in the vast Soviet empire."

It said that the United States expects the United Nations to examine Soviet colonialism as carefully as it does that of Portugal or any other nation.

Space Needles Believed Found

LEXINGTON, Mass. (AP)—A powerful American satellite-tracking radar has picked up evidence that 350 million tiny copper filaments sent aloft Oct. 21 are still orbiting in a package—instead of a cloud.

The Massachusetts Institute of Technology Lincoln Laboratory said it is carrying out calculations and experiments as to why the copper hairs seemingly have not been released.

The purpose of what is called Project West Ford experiment was to spread a band of the tiny needles in a 2,100-mile orbit 2,100 miles above the earth. The fine wires were to have formed a thick cloud about five miles wide and 25 miles deep.

The announcement said the Millstone Hill radar, at Westford, Mass., has picked up contacts on three occasions—Nov. 3, Nov. 15 and Nov. 22 with what may be the package—only 6 inches in diameter and 17 inches long, as it passed about 2,000 miles overhead.

Adenauer's Illness Delays Paris Talks

BONN, Germany (AP)—Chancellor Konrad Adenauer has been forced by illness to postpone until Dec. 9 a conference in Paris with French President Charles de Gaulle on the pressing problems of Berlin and Germany, the federal press office announced Monday.

The 85-year-old chancellor had been scheduled to talk with De Gaulle Thursday, but a case of gripple picked up in Washington last week during conferences with President Kennedy forced the postponement.

West Skeptical Of Russian Call For A-Test Ban

MOSCOW (AP)—With its own current nuclear tests completed, the Soviet Union proposed Monday that the three powers meeting in Geneva Tuesday agree to ban all nuclear testing. France was asked to join the United States, Britain and the Soviet Union in the agreement.

The proposal clearly had, among other aims, that of meeting some of the storm of world disapproval that blew up when the Soviet Union began testing in September and climaxed the explosions with a monster blast of a 50-megaton bomb Oct. 30.

Western sources said the new Soviet offer was unacceptable because it again lacked adequate controls.

The proposal was contained in two documents handed out to correspondents called to the Foreign Office this cold and snowy November afternoon.

One was the text of a suggested agreement. The plan would put an immediate total ban on underground testing such as is carried on by the United States. It called for suspending such tests until a workable system of detection could be developed.

As for testing bombs in the air, under water and in space, the Soviet Union said the various countries had adequate facilities for detecting such tests now and no inspection would be necessary.

A similar proposal governing atmospheric testing was made by President Kennedy and British Prime Minister Harold Macmillan Sept. 3 with a similar explanation that inspection was not necessary.

The Kennedy-Macmillan proposal was made after the Soviet Union abruptly broke a three-power moratorium by resuming nuclear tests. The tests were conducted in the air and under the sea.

Premier Khrushchev rejected the London-Washington plan and called instead for general and complete disarmament. The West has rejected this approach as unrealistic.

Publication of the document on the eve of the reopening of the Geneva conference appeared to be a propaganda move designed to throw the burden upon the United States to explain to the world why it continued testing.

Izvestia To Publish JFK Interview Soon

WASHINGTON (AP)—White House sources said today they expect President Kennedy's private interview with Soviet Premier Khrushchev's son-in-law to be published within the next 48 hours.

Press secretary Pierre Salinger would say only that the text of the interview will be made public here after it has been published in the Soviet government paper Izvestia in Moscow.

The interview is being cabled to Moscow by Aleksei Adzhubei, Izvestia editor and son-in-law of the Soviet premier, who interviewed Kennedy in his summer home at Hyannis Port, Mass., last Saturday.

Fancy Easter Egg Sold For $30,800

LONDON (AP)—An opalescent pale green enameled Easter egg was sold at Sotheby's Auction Rooms Monday for 11,000 pounds—$30,800.

The egg, slightly more than three inches from end to end, was ornamented with gold, by the French goldsmith Peter Carl Faberge in 1916.

He was commissioned to make it by Czar Nicholas II, as an Easter present to the Dowager Empress Marie Feodorovna. The Russian royal family made a practice of exchanging ornamental Easter eggs, and the one sold Monday was the last of a long line. A year after it was made the Bolshevik Revolution of 1917 ended the royal house.

The egg was sent for sale by Prince Basil Romanov. The buyer was Thomas Lumley, a London silversmith.

Decision Near In Dominican Political Talks

SANTO DOMINGO, Dominican Republic (AP)—Conferences between President Joaquin Balaguer and opposition forces on formation of a government neared decision Monday in this troubled country, seeking a new life after years of rule by the Trujillo dynasty.

Discussions reportedly centered on a demand by the conservative National Civic Union, largest of the opposition factions, for a provisional junta to take over executive and legislative powers until general elections are held.

The Civic Union was said to have taken the lead in the talks. Delegates representing the 14th of June Movement also were present but in smaller number. Revolutionary party sources said their leaders attended only as observers.

The United States deputy under-secretary of state for Latin-American affairs, Arturo Morales Acarion, has been taking part in the negotiations.

Chimp For Orbital Flight Will Be Selected Today

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP)—A jag-eared chimpanzee with remarkable brainpower soon will rocket around the world to learn the possible effect of orbital flight on an American astronaut.

The chimp will provide the first careful measurements obtained by U.S. scientists on whether mental faculties and reflexes are disturbed by a prolonged period of floating in space without the familiar sensation of having weight.

The National Aeronautics and Space Administration is expected to reveal the name of the chimp Tuesday. If all goes right, the animal will ride a Project Mercury capsule three times around the globe in 4½ hours Wednesday.

How the chimp reacts will determine whether a human pilot

Five Venezuela Plane Hijackers Held In Curacao

CURACAO, Netherlands Antilles (UPI)—Five young Venezuelans hijacked a DC6 airliner with 43 persons aboard over Caracas on Monday. They dropped anti-government leaflets on the Venezuelan capital for 10 minutes before forcing the pilot at gunpoint to fly to Curacao when he told them he did not have the gas to take them to Havana.

One of the passengers, Andrew S. Duarte, an American contractor from Caracas, said the hijackers identified themselves as members of the Communist youth movement. The leaflets they had dropped called for anti-government demonstrations Tuesday in protest against the suspension of constitutional guarantees.

Duarte was one of four and perhaps, six Americans aboard the airliner. He identified his American seat mates as Henry C. Ross, of the Creole Petroleum Co., Walter Lappert of San Francisco and George B. Gregory of GAMCA, of Maracaibo. Other foreigners aboard presumed to be Americans were identified as Erle (or Earle) Elrick and George Hatley (or Hadley).

The young men, identified as university students from Caracas, seized the plane just after it took off from Maiquetia, the Caracas airport, for Maracaibo, the country's rich oil-producing center.

Tommygun-bearing Dutch police surrounded the four-engined transport as it landed. They disarmed the hijackers and took them into an airport building for interrogation. Passengers were allowed to disembark but they were kept in a group and not permitted to talk to newsmen.

(Reports from Caracas said Venezuela had asked the local Dutch government for immediate return of the plane and its passengers and filed formal notice it would seek to extradite the hijackers.)

Pilot Juan Nolek told airport police the men burst into his cabin brandishing pistols shortly after takeoff.

Man Bumped From No. 2 State Dept. Job Will Advise Kennedy

WASHINGTON (AP)—The White House announced Monday that Chester Bowles has accepted a new and important diplomatic post especially tailored for him.

The announcement ended reports that Bowles had decided to quit after being replaced as No. 2 man in the State Department.

President Kennedy, who made a series of major changes in the White House-State Department foreign policy command over the weekend, called Bowles in for a talk Monday afternoon.

The President's press secretary, Pierre Salinger, then announced Bowles had accepted appointment as Kennedy's "special representative and adviser on African, Asian, and Latin-American affairs with particular emphasis on the problems of the new and developing countries."

Bowles, who has held the title of undersecretary of state, will undertake special missions for the President in these areas, Salinger said.

Rank Of Ambassador

"The President is delighted to have Mr. Bowles devoting his full time and attention to these new and greater responsibilities in an area he considers second to none in importance," Salinger added. Salinger said Bowles will report directly to Kennedy and to Secretary of State Dean Rusk on "long-range planning and policy in this area and on the improvement of our operation and representation in the countries involved."

Bowles will hold the rank of ambassador, but Salinger described the job as a brand-new one and not comparable to the roving ambassadorship formerly held by W. Averell Harriman.

Harriman, one of the 10 officials receiving new assignments in the biggest shakeup of the Kennedy administration thus far, becomes an assistant secretary of state.

No salary for Bowles has been set, but Salinger said it would be "commensurate with the importance of his post." It was reported that Bowles would receive an increase over his $22,500 pay as undersecretary and his rank on the diplomatic ladder would rise.

Full Time Position

White House sources emphasized that Bowles would be able to devote full time to the new job. Bowles was known to have little liking for the detailed chores connected with the day-to-day operations for which the undersecretary is responsible.

Officials said the choice of Bowles for such an assignment would make clear to the developing countries that despite conspicuous problems centering on Berlin and other East-West trouble spots, the President considers their future of the utmost importance.

Bowles, 60, a controversial figure in the Kennedy administration since its first few weeks in office, was reported to have had no advance information that he was being eased out of his high State Department post.

Bowles' present post will go to George W. Ball, who was moved up from undersecretary of state for economic affairs.

Both Kennedy and Rusk were pictured as feeling that Bowles was miscast in the role of undersecretary. Bowles has spent considerable time traveling abroad.

France Girds For Vast Strike

PARIS (UPI)—France Monday girded for a nationwide strike of 460,000 state employees that was expected to enforce a day of idleness on 9 million Frenchmen.

The strike Tuesday was aimed at breaking President Charles de Gaulle's three-year-old austerity wage freeze.

The backbone of the strike was some 350,000 state railway workers and 110,000 employees of the state-run gas and electricity industries scheduled to walk out. In the Paris area the strike will be supported by some 365,000 other state employees. The government has taken no direct counter-action.

Preparations for the strike on Monday night gave Paris the air of a city readying for a siege. A cut in electrical power between 6 a.m. and 5 p.m. Tuesday will halt subways, electric factory machines and equipment in such diverse places as women's beauty salons and dentists' offices.

The strike is backed by the three biggest general unions in the country—the Communist CGT, the Catholic CFTC and the Socialist workers' force.

Red Border Policemen, Soldiers Flee To West

BERLIN (UPI) — More than 30 East Germans, including Communist border policemen and "people's army" soldiers, have fled to the West in a new flurry of refugee escapes, Western police reported Monday.

Police said at least 22 East Germans made their way to West Berlin through the Communists' anti-refugee border barriers in a 24-hour period ending Monday.

In West Germany, Bavarian border police said that nine other East Germans made it safely to the West by taking advantage of a heavy fog.

The refugees reaching West Germany from the Soviet zone included two Communist border policemen in civilian clothes plus two "people's army" soldiers in full uniform, a police spokesman said.

The two defecting soldiers told police they decided to flee the Soviet zone after they received new orders to shoot and kill Germans trying to cross to the West.

Western observers, meanwhile, predicted difficult going with the Soviets in any Berlin negotiations in the wake of East German Communist boss Walter Ulbricht's new denial of Allied access rights to Berlin.

Ulbricht, in a speech to the East German Communist party central committee Sunday, said the Western Allies have no travel rights to and from Berlin across Communist East Germany. Ulbricht also implied that an Allied de facto recognition of East Germany would be regarded as a concession in any Berlin negotiations.

The speech caused pessimism among Western observers who hoped that the Russians might be easing their stand on Berlin.

Western officials said in the Ulbricht speech was a reaffirmation of Soviet Premier Nikita S. Khrushchev's threat to end Allied rights in the four-power city and turn over control over access routes and traffic to the East German regime.

Reading Of Eichmann Verdict Starts Dec. 11

JERUSALEM (UPI) — The three Israeli judges who will decide whether accused Nazi mass-murderer Adolf Eichmann lives or dies will begin reading their verdict on Dec. 11, it was announced Monday.

The verdict will be announced after the Jewish Festival of Chanukah, which commemorates the victory of the Maccabees over the Syrians and the re-consecration of the temple of Jerusalem in 165 B.C.

Little Terry Jo Sticks To Boat Tragedy Story

MIAMI (UPI) — A second questioning of Terry Jo Duperrault, lone survivor of the sinking of the sailboat Bluebelle, made her original story of possible murder on the high seas "more convincing", a Coast Guard spokesman said Monday.

The blonde 11-year-old orphan of the Bluebelle tragedy Nov. 12, which claimed the lives of her parents, brother, sister and the wife of the boat's captain, told her story again Sunday to Coast Guard investigators.

Then, accompanied by her aunt she left the hospital and flew back to Wisconsin.

More than 30 pages of testimony were recorded in the second interview with Terry Jo. A Coast Guard spokesman said the transcription "makes her story more convincing than ever, and doesn't change any essentials."

Terry Jo, following her rescue at sea after nearly four days on a tiny life float without food or water, first told Nov. 19 her tale of the Bluebelle sinking. She said she saw her mother and brother lying in a pool of blood and that the boat's skipper, Julian A. Harvey, abandoned her on the bloodied deck of the sinking ketch.

The story also disputed Harvey's own account of a broken mast that punctured the hull and started a fire.

Harvey, 45-year-old former Air Force combat and test pilot, committed suicide Nov. 17 in a Miami motel room the day after Terry Jo was found alive.

Harvey was picked up at sea Nov. 13, the day after the sinking, in a dinghy which also contained the body of Rene Duperrault, 7, who had drowned.

Private Rites Today For Sen. Bridges

CONCORD, N.H. (UPI) — Private funeral services will be held Tuesday for Sen. Styles Bridges, dean of U.S. Senate Republicans and a militant Yankee conservative, who died in his sleep Sunday at the age of 63.

His body will lie in state in the Hall of Flags of the State House from 2 p.m. EST Tuesday until 11 A.M. Wednesday. Public services will be conducted Wednesday noon in the State House by Dr. Frederick Brown Harris, chaplain of the U.S. Senate, and Dr. Frederick W. Alden, minister of the New Hampshire Congregational Christian Conference.

Boy Rocketeers Recover Mouse

TOPEKA, Kan. (AP) — The Topeka Rocket Society—all teenagers—successfully fired a white mouse an estimated 1,500 feet in the air Sunday and brought it back safely.

The firing was from an abandoned quarry west of Topeka with a rocket designed by Ned Nuss, 16. The ejection capsule opened on schedule and the mouse was parachuted to ground. Winds carried it about half a mile from the launching site.

Agriculture Vital To State, Tawes Asserts

SNOW HILL, Md. (AP) — "Agriculture has been from the beginning, is now, and we expect will be in the future the very backbone and marrow of our Maryland economy," Gov. Tawes told a "Farmer's Night" dinner here Monday night.

The governor said Maryland's 25,000 farms have an annual product worth approximately $285 million. Tawes said that while this figure does not vie with larger states in total production, "it ranks high in terms of production per farm and production per acre."

"A farmer nowadays is not only a cultivator of the soil," the governor said. "He must be a business man. He must have the scientific and technological know-how to grow crops and produce livestock. Otherwise, he will not survive in a competitive world."

"In agriculture, as in industry and commerce, it is a function of government . . . to create a social and economic climate that will permit people to prosper in their undertakings. This is true of all levels of government — federal, state and local."

"Understandably, farmers, being individuals, have resented some of government's activities as meddling. But most assuredly, the farmers of today would not advocate the elimination of programs of agricultural assistance and advice that are offered by federal, state and local governments."

"In your state government, we have tried to help the farmer — not to interfere with his farming. Our role, as I have suggested, is to create the kind of circumstances under which he can be most successful in his endeavors."

The governor said the state is carrying out its responsibilities to the farmer through research and various other service and control programs.

Tawes said he was confident that the Agricultural Advisory Board, created by the 1961 General Assembly and appointed by the governor recently, will "bring our agricultural activities at College Park and elsewhere closer to the thinking of the individual Maryland farmer."

Adlai Returns After Talks With Frondizi

PORT OF SPAIN, Trinidad, (UPI) — U.S. Ambassador Adlai E. Stevenson returned to New York Monday following a secret talks with Argentine President Arturo Frondizi which were believed to have hinged on the thorny Cuban problem in hemisphere relations.

Stevenson hinted the nature of the urgently scheduled conference between the two statesmen when he said in a statement that the discussion included "the security of the hemisphere against alien influences from abroad."

Previously, the ambassador to the United Nations had denied that the situation was a major topic on the agenda.

COLD STORAGE—This Air Force C47 transport plane, held aloft by a 30-foot high mound of ice, marks the site of former Ice Station Bravo in Alaska. The Air Force said the plane, stripped with only the shell remaining, has been lodged on the ice since it made a forced landing five years ago. Since then, wind fashioned the ice mound pedestal for the abandoned plane. Bravo, a weather and scientific research outpost, was deactivated recently. (U.S. Air Force photo via AP Photofax)

Butler Charges Demo Disunity On Berlin Policy

HOT SPRINGS, Va. (AP) — West Berliners have "lost faith in our will and our ability to defend them" because leaders of President Kennedy's own Democratic party failed to present a united front, Sen. John Marshall Butler, R-Md., declared Monday night.

"The President quite correctly announced that the United States was going to stand firm on its Berlin commitment," Butler stated.

"He had hardly finished uttering the words when two of his administration's most powerful and respected spokesmen in the Senate came out with statements directly and flatly contradicting him," the Maryland senator said.

Butler, in a speech prepared for the Associated Builders and Contractors of Maryland, recalled that Sen. Mike Mansfield, D-Montana, the majority leader, proposed June 14 on the Senate floor that Berlin be made a "free city."

While Mansfield specified he was making the suggestion on his own personal authority, Butler claimed "it is difficult to explain to a European how the leader of the President's party can make a statement of such import directly contradicting the policy of the President . . ."

Butler also recalled that Sen. Wayne Morse, D-Oregon, chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, on July 30 "made the truly remarkable statement that the closing of the refugee escape hatch from East Germany into West Berlin was a negotiable point . . ."

Butler asked if this wasn't an open invitation to Nikita Khrushchev "to close the escape hatch and seal off the border."

It is evident that Khrushchev did, Butler said, "because two weeks later, to the day, the escape hatch was closed and the border was sealed off."

Butler maintained that the denial of access to Berlin is "contrary to existing treaty agreements. The wall, in particular, should never have been permitted to stand."

"It should have been demolished as quickly as it was erected."

Boy Who Took Change From Dad Kills Self

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — A teenage boy who had taken some change from his father's pants pocket shot himself to death Sunday night and left a note telling his parents: "You will be able to live without a thief in the house."

Alfred B. Cerf told police there had been a family talk Sunday about some change taken from his pocket by his son Geoffrey, 16. The father said it totaled less than a dollar.

Philadelphian Freed On Bond After "Sit-In"

BALTIMORE (AP) — David L. Nottage, 39, of Philadelphia joined 56 others Monday awaiting trials by jury after arrests for protesting refusal of restaurants in Maryland to serve Negroes.

Nottage pleaded innocent to trespassing at a restaurant on Ritchie Highway between Baltimore and Annapolis Nov. 11. He was granted a trial by circuit jury and released in $54 bond.

Nottage, a former student at Morgan College in Baltimore, was one of 33 demonstrators who staged tests of segregated restaurant service on Veterans Day. Other arrests were made in similar demonstrations Nov. 18 and Nov. 22.

The tests were staged in Baltimore and Annapolis after the Congress of Racial Equality (CORE) had called off a "freedom ride" demonstration along U.S. 40 north-east of Baltimore.

State Prepares To Begin Fallout Survey Program

BALTIMORE (AP) — Maryland moves next Monday to start a survey of fallout shelters available in the state. It may be the first state in the nation to get its program under way.

The Baltimore District of the Army Corps of Engineers, through Col. Warren R. Johnson, the chief engineer, said contracts for the survey may be let Monday. "We have been negotiating with three engineering firms and we are almost ready to let contracts," Johnson said. "If agreements result, the actual physical examination of buildings may begin before Dec. 15."

The Department of Defense released $93 million Monday for the nationwide search for available shelters.

Officials of Baltimore and all Maryland counties have been invited to a meeting Friday at 10:30 a.m. in the State Civil Defense Control Center in Pikesville to discuss the survey.

Stuart Pittman, assistant secretary of defense and chief of the newly reorganized Office of Civil Defense, extended the invitations. The Army engineers will supervise the search west of the Chesapeake Bay. The Navy will be responsible for the survey in Eastern Shore counties. Specially trained engineers and architects, under contracts let by the Army engineers, will conduct the actual search.

Maryland News In Brief

DENTON (AP) — After 35 years of trying, Denton got its new post office Monday.

The $350,000, two-story building handled mail for this Caroline County seat Monday for the first time. Efforts began as early as 1926 to replace the old building, built in 1911.

The structure, called the Federal Building, also will house the Soil Conservation Service, Home Demonstration Agent, Selective Service and other agencies.

BALTIMORE (AP) — It's back to the sea for the Michael Badham family, which recently sailed from Portsmouth, England, across the Atlantic in a 42-foot sailing ketch.

Badham, formerly a lieutenant commander in the Royal Navy, his wife, Anabel, and their children, Miranda, 5, and Bill, 3, spent 80 days on the voyage by way of the Caribbean.

Badham said the family plans to return to the Caribbean soon, in time for the forthcoming charter season.

ANNAPOLIS (AP) — The Baltimore and Annapolis Railroad Co. will start its experimental commuter train from Harundale to Baltimore next Monday.

James W. Easter, president of the line, said single, 90-seat Diesel-electric cars would make the 18-mile round trip every two hours during the experimental period, expected to last a week or two.

He said buses would meet the train in downtown Baltimore's Camden Station and take commuters to other city areas, including the State Office Buildings. The fare will be 60 cents each way.

BALTIMORE (AP) — Windows were shattered and a 15-year-old boy was shot in the foot during an early morning brawl Monday.

The owner of the restaurant where the windows were smashed, Fred Ross, 31, was fined $25 in Western Municipal Court for discharging firearms. A charge of shooting was dismissed.

Ross told officers he fired two shots after a fight broke out and the windows were broken. One bullet ricocheted and hit the boy in the foot. The youngster was named in juvenile petitions charging disorderly conduct after he was treated and released for the minor wound.

William Rice, Samuel Holman and Robert W. Jones were all fined $25 and costs upon their conviction of disorderly conduct.

Crash Inquiry To Be Resumed

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Civil Aeronautics Board said Monday it may resume at Miami Beach next month its inquiry into the Richmond, Va., Imperial Airlines plane crash in which 74 Army recruits and three crew members were killed.

The board said the hearing date has not yet been set, however. Earlier plans to resume the hearing next Thursday were canceled because of conflict with other CAB engagements.

The inquiry panel will be the same as that which presided at the Richmond hearings last week: CAB member G. Joseph Minetti, assistant general counsel Ross Newmann, hearing officer Reed Tait and Leon Tanguay, deputy director of the Bureau of Safety.

At the Richmond hearing CAB experts testified that bits of rust-colored foreign matter were found in the fuel systems of all four engines of the Constellation airliner.

A species of small mosquito breeds in the water which accumulates in the hollow of bamboo stems.

Tawes, Society Air Plans For Amphitheater

ANNAPOLIS (AP) — Gov. Tawes discussed plans Monday with the Maryland Historical Drama Society for a 2,000-seat outdoor amphitheater to serve as permanent home for theatrical productions on the early history of the state.

The proposed amphitheater, which would have parking space for 1,000 cars, would be built at Sandy Point State Park on the Chesapeake Bay near here.

Elmer M. Jackson Jr., chairman of the historical group, said the outdoor theater would be the site of "Flame of Freedom," a historical drama written by Virginia Brooks.

Jackson said the production, which would employ upwards of 100 actors, would give the state publicity on a national scale. "It is both our duty and our opportunity to present this inspiring story for the benefit of our children as well as for the general public," Jackson said.

The governor expressed interest in the $300,000 theater project but said he wished to consult with various state agencies, including the Department of Economic Development, to explore the tourist potential, before making any commitment.

The Department of Forests and Parks has come up with a preliminary plan for the amphitheater, which would have the Chesapeake Bay as a backdrop. Jackson proposed that the state construct the amphitheater as a part of the Sandy Point improvement program and lease it to the non-profit historical corporation. A spokesman for the corporation estimates that the capacity box office for a ten-week summer season, with six performances a week, would be in excess of $333,000.

Sailor Killed In Drag Race

WASHINGTON (AP) — An 18-year-old sailor was killed and two companions injured Monday when the car in which they were drag racing went out of control, sheared off a light pole, knocked a parked car 100 feet, turned upside down and caught fire.

The flaming end to the 90-mile-an-hour race on Michigan avenue in northeast Washington, brought death to John Albert Thompson, East Pines, Md., an apprentice seaman.

Seriously injured was Richard Rusk, 23, Riverdale, Md., a carpenter, driver of the car.

Also riding in the car was Larry Kerns, 17, Riverdale. He was treated for face and head injuries.

Police said they were told that four cars were in the race when the Rusk car, in the lead, was sideswiped by one driven by Douglas G. Jacobs, 20, of Silver Spring, Md. He was charged with homicide.

Drivers of the other cars were identified by police as James M. Higgins, 19, and Harry C. Perry III, 20, both of Silver Spring.

UPPER MARLBORO, Md. (AP) — Miss Carol Ann Polley, 28, College Park, Md., will enter Prince Georges County police training school next Monday.

A graduate of the University of Maryland, Miss Polley has been a technician in the university's livestock laboratory. In college she majored in sociology and took some criminology courses.

PARKS MEETING—Gov. Tawes (seated) goes over the format of a letter being sent to more than 100 Marylanders urging their participation in the annual governor's conference on recreation and parks. The conference will be held in Frederick April 12-14. The governor is assisted by Dr. Warren R. Evans (left), Frederick, general chairman of the conference; Joseph F. Kaylor (right), director of the Department of Forests and Parks; and Warren Kershaw, Annapolis, president of the Maryland Recreation and Parks Society. (AP Photofax)

Two Maryland Boys Win $400 4-H Scholarships

CHICAGO (AP) — Two 4-H Club members from Maryland were awarded $400 scholarships Monday at the 40th National 4-H Club Congress.

Edward M. Warff III, 19, of Route 1, Woodbine, was one of 12 given awards by the Ford Motor Company in the national 4-H achievement program.

The other Maryland winner was Robert Scott, 17, of Randallstown, in the national 4-H garden program. His award was given by the Allis-Chalmers Manufacturing Company.

Warff, son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward M. Warff Jr., is a junior at the University of Maryland. The Carroll County youth has been a 4-H Club member for 11 years, and four years ago he was a state and national winner in electricity.

Approves Venture

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — A California firm and an Indian company Monday have permission to jointly manufacture selenium rectifiers in New Delhi. Eric Lidow, president of International Rectifier Corp., of El Segundo, Calif., said the government of India approved the 20-50 venture with Ram Krishan Kulwant Rai of New Delhi.

Howard Countian Offers New Reapportioning Plan

BALTIMORE (AP) — Another plan for reapportioning the Maryland House of Delegates was proposed Monday by Delegate James Clark, D-Howard.

Clark said he would introduce a bill for reapportionment which would not require an increase in the present membership of 123 in the House. The 29-member Senate also would be unchanged.

Clark's bill would provide for a minimum of two delegates for each county and the six districts of Baltimore city, no matter their population.

The remaining 65 seats would be distributed on the basis of population under a formula which Clark is still working on.

Over provisions of Clark's proposed measure would provide for subdivision of Maryland's 23 counties into legislative districts, and would realign seats automatically every 10 years, using the decennial census as the basis.

Other provisions of Clark's measures would increase the size of the House. But Clark said Monday "It just doesn't make any sense to put more people in the House of Delegates. There's no advantage to it. There are plenty of representatives for the number of people we have in the state now."

The trend of population shifts from rural to metropolitan areas has upset the balance in the Legislature.

Secrets Of Charm

Ah, the Joyous Season approaches! That intimate interval in time signified by stepped-up spirits, stepped-on toes . . . and absolutely squashed waists! What happens to Christmas cheer the rest of the year? What contradictory elves we are.

We are cheerful . . . or will be soon . . . for a few weeks. Just beforehand and instantly after, we are positively petrifying in our reaction against loving and doing and sending and spending . . . and driving ourselves more than each day allows . . . and staying up and getting up earlier than our health will permit.

Our feet hurt. Our tempers are shattered. That pushing, shoving, grumbling personality that drapes us at any time of crisis shrouds us even more at the holiday season.

Relax, please! NOW, while the giving is good! Remember that every delivery man, every sales person, every erratic relative, every confused child is going through much the same experience we feel.

It's not enough to wrap your Christmas gifts in sparkly paper and fancy bows . . . unless they are clad also with love . . . love for the one who made the gift . . . the one who sold it . . . the one who delivered it . . . the one who found it before it could be properly hidden . . . all the love in the world. All the love you have!

Members of the executive committee, in addition to the officers, are Ross H. Tuckwiler, Lewisburg, Greenbrier County; Luther Britton, Morgantown; Douglas Miller, Inwood, Berkeley County; Carroll Green, Kenova, Wayne County, and S. B. Wells, New England, Wood County.

The Congress is made up of representatives of 15 state-wide farm organizations and cooperatives that are voting delegates.

New Traffic Light Ordered

The Mayor and Council authorized Police and Fire Commissioner Philmore Fleming to advertise for a traffic light to be located at the intersection of Greene and Allegany streets.

The location is one of the bad traffic spots in the city, Fleming said, and a light is needed badly. A policeman is on duty at busy times such as noon and when school children are going and returning from school.

The light will be of the overhead type such as are in operation on Baltimore Street, the commissioner said. A light at the site was knocked down about two years ago and was not replaced.

World-Famous Words, Works On Yule Cards

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (UPI)—Many Christmas cards this year will contain the words and works of world-famous authors and artists.

As part of a trend to make cards each year better and more enjoyable, card companies have obtained the works of such personages as Phyllis McGinley, Pulitzer prize-winning poet of 1961; Helen Keller, whose works and writings have inspired thousands; the late Brois Pasternak; Karl Shapiro, Mark Van Doren, Archibald MacLeish, W. H. Auden, T. S. Eliot and a host of others.

Their special Christmas writings often are paired with fine art paintings by the old masters, such as Leonardo da Vinci; Rembrandt; Monet; Fra Angelico; Peter Bruegel, the elder, and others.

Many of their paintings are of the Madonna and Child, and of other religious topics, lending support to still another of our Christmas trends—to cards of a more religious nature.

Arrangements for use of the paintings were made between Hallmark Cards and Albert Skira, of Geneva, Switzerland, a leading art printer.

Miss McGinley, in a card devoted entirely to her poem, "A Christmas Legend," tells a fable of how a nightingale and a robin beat their wings to soothe and warm the Christ child in the manger.

Pasternak's "Star of the Nativity" also is quoted in full on another greeting, while shorter poems and quotations from such persons as Charles Dickens, William Shakespeare and Henry Wadsworth Longfellow appear on cards.

Phillips Brooks, a 19th century American bishop who wrote "O Little Town of Bethlehem," captured the essence of the festival in a brief poem on another greeting:

"The earth has grown old with its burden of care

"But at Christmas it always is young,

"The heart of the jew'el burns lustrous and fair

"And its soul full of music breaks forth on the air,

"When the song of the angels is sung."

TRADITIONAL CHRISTMAS CARDS BACK IN FAVOR—A large percentage of the three billion Christmas greeting cards that will be sent this year are illustrated with the traditional Christmas symbols such as candles, holly and poinsettia, winter scenes, Santa Claus, snowmen and Christmas trees. More than 50,000 different, warmer and friendlier designs are available, according to the Greeting Card Association. (Central Press)

Influenza, Hazardous Drugs And Ulcers

By The Associated Press

Signs of influenza in waves of death, hazardous drugs for young children, and the common complaint of the world—ulcers—are subjects for focus on health.

Two Asian influenza epidemics have swept the United States in the last three years since the specific virus was first recognized, doctors say. There are indications that these waves of flu have been involved in some 86,000 deaths.

Scientists have urged that influenza shots be given to older persons, pregnant women and persons with chronic ailments since they are more often the targets for the worst effects of influenza. Death rates indicate now that the Asian flu has already claimed many of the weak and infirm.

The first epidemic came in two waves, one in 1957, the other in 1958. During the first, the United States recorded some 447,000 deaths from all causes—nearly 40,000 more than had been expected. In the second wave, total deaths were 20,000 more than expected.

In 1960, some 26,000 excess deaths were recorded.

Some drugs, safe for use in adults, can be fatal for children. So warns Dr. James M. Sutherland, University of Cincinnati pediatrician.

Death, blindness and brain damage in the newborn have been caused by some drugs even though they are considered safe for adults, Dr. Sutherland said. In treatment, pediatricians know that "the child is not a little man," and they must also consider that "the infant is not a little child," he added.

Some 10 to 15 per cent of the world's population has ulcers, says a University of Chicago doctor. Though the cause is obscure, peptic ulcer seems to be one of the common segments of ill health the world over.

Dr. Joseph B. Kirsner said the two essential factors in the formation of an ulcer seem to be the digestive action of the stomach acids and the decreased resistance of the mucous lining of the stomach and upper digestive tract.

Kennedy Will Fly To Army-Navy Game

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Kennedy will fly to Philadelphia for the Army-Navy football game next Saturday and return to Washington by train, the White House said Monday. The homeward trip will be on a special train which probably will carry other Washington dignitaries back to the capital.

Ann Landers . . .

Answers Your Problems

DEAR ANN LANDERS: It is apparent that a vast number of intelligent and well-bred people don't know what to say when they telephone a friend. Often the first words I hear are, "What are you doing?"

Well, maybe I don't wish to tell a casual acquaintance "What I'm doing."

It is only good manners for the caller to identify himself immediately — even though he may be calling a close friend or relative. It's foolish to assume that a voice will be recognized at once — by one and all.

I received one of those "what are you doing" calls last night and I asked "Who is this?" My husband said I sounded like a shrew and he wouldn't blame the friend if she never phoned again. Comment, please. — UP IN ARMS

DEAR UP: The person telephoned is the one whose privacy is invaded. He is entitled to know immediately who is calling. The first words he hears should be "This is —."

The caller who fails to identify himself at once should be asked to do so. If he refuses to give his name when asked, and says something insipid like "Can't you guess?" he deserves whatever he gets in the way of a reply.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I am 22, a college junior and madly in love with a girl who is 16. Before you jump to a hasty conclusion let me tell you this girl is more a woman than most 22-year-olds I've dated. She is mature and very smart.

This summer I asked her to marry me at Christmas time. Her father almost threw me out of the house. My folks said I was nuts. It's true that she has a year and a half of school left, but I figure she can go to work until I get my degree and then get her diploma later. We could manage swell financially and I wouldn't have to work part-time as I do now. I could devote all my time to studies. Many married students on campus get along fine and so could we. Please help us. — D AND K

DEAR D AND K: What a perfectly ginger-peachy plan! You want this 16-year-old girl to quit high school and marry you — and go to work so you can devote all YOUR time to studies. And she can get HER diploma later, can she?

If this "mature and bright" girl has an operating brain cell in her head she'll stay in high school where she belongs. And you, my friend, have a lot of growing up to do before you consider marriage.

DEAR ANN: I met this man at my place of work. He holds a fine position and has a charming personality.

I am a widow, 36. He said he was divorced. After six months

I learned he is not divorced, but separated from his wife. He never mentioned children, but it turns out that he has three. I also discovered he is spending his week-ends at home. He always told me he had to be with his mother on week-ends because she is unwell. He insists that I am ill-informed, that he is not married but he does admit to going home week-ends to see his children.

How can I get the facts? Is there a place to check? I must have the truth. — TIED HANDS

DEAR TIED: You have the most important fact — your friend is a liar. And any man who could forget a detail like three children is probably hiding plenty more. Give him his walking papers so fast he'll catch pneumonia from the breeze.

To learn the booby-traps of teen-age drinking, write for ANN LANDERS' booklet, "Teen-age Drinking," enclosing with your request 20 cents in coin and a long-self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Police Probe Car Damage

Seventeen automobiles in the Johnson Heights area were damaged by vandals Sunday, according to complaints received at police headquarters.

Detective Royce J. Clayton reported that he found antennas had been broken off 16 other autos in that area after leaving to investigate the first complaint. It is believed the vandalism was committed by two youths who were seen in the area, although the boys could not be located despite a thorough search of the region.

Detective Clayton also investigated a report that two dogs had been stolen from the back yard of a South Cumberland home.

The complaint was made by Robert Miller, 101 Mary Street, who said the "dognappers" took two beagle hounds from a kennel in his back yard.

County Tax System Study Urged Here

A local attorney urged the Mayor and Council yesterday to instigate a study of the Allegany County governmental setup from the political, tax and services standpoints.

Thomas N. Berry, the attorney, said that incorporated towns, and he mentioned Cumberland, Frostburg and Westernport, are carrying three-fourths of the county's tax burden, while at the same time carrying their own tax burdens.

He suggested that a committee be set up representing all parts of Allegany County (such as the charter study group which Cumberland once had) to study the revision of the county setup and added "If the county moves into services normally reserved for municipalities, then the county government needs to be studied and revised."

Berry began his appearance by saying that he was speaking as a taxpayer. He congratulated the Mayor and Council for the concern it has shown for Cumberland taxpayers the past three years and cited, in particular, the activity of the Water Department in that regard. He said the Water Department approach to the question was sensible and showed real regard for the taxpayer.

For some reason, he said, the city and county political structures are considered as two separate things. Cumberland people are elected to the Mayor and Council but never to the Board of Allegany County Commissioners, he pointed out.

Then after noting that incorporated communities carry the county tax burden plus their own, he said "There seems to be a tendency for the county to expand its services to where they are almost municipal services."

He cited water for example. Then he continued that if Allegany County proceeds with its plans for piping water from the Savage River Dam, the cost to the taxpayers will increase and the municipalities increase.

"It seems to me," he asserted, "that the Mayor and Council should initiate a meeting or invite members of the Legislature from the county to ask a review of the county political setup."

He asked the review in particular on (1) services and (2) the tax structure.

"It is unfair to incorporate communities to carry their own tax burden and also carry the tax burden for localities like LaVale," he asserted.

"Considering all factors, we should give some thought to initiating a study of the whole picture," he said.

In view of the fact that there are three "part-time commissioners" running the county, "We should study if it is an efficient, modern method," he claimed.

Mayor J. Edwin Keech told Berry that council would give his request consideration.

Amcelle Plant Engineers Promoted By Company

Recent changes in the Engineering Section at Amcelle Plant of Celanese Fibers Company have resulted in promotions for Donald E. Paupe and Robert J. Sutton, both professional staff members with a wide background of plant experience.

Paupe was employed at Amcelle in 1951 after graduation from Johns Hopkins University with a degree in mechanical engineering. He carried out engineering assignments in design, estimating, construction and plant maintenance before his present assignment to Project Engineering, where he will be responsible for drafting and construction.

A native of Cumberland and graduate of Allegany High School, Paupe is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Russell C. Paupe, 810 Shriver Avenue. The elder Paupe is a retired Celanese employee.

Paupe is a member of the Cumberland Engineer's Club, Cumberland Civic Orchestra and St. Paul's Lutheran Church. He resides at 22 Long Drive with his wife and young daughter.

Sutton has assumed the responsibility of Corrosion and Inspection Engineer after service in Textile Manufacturing, Cellulose Compounds, production and development.

A native of Bolivar, Pa., where he attended high school, Sutton received a B. S. degree in Chemistry from Pennsylvania State University and did some graduate work in industrial chemistry before employment at the local plant in 1940.

His plant service was interrupted

City To Buy Snow Removal Route Signs

A sharp, but brief "jurisdictional dispute" erupted during a discussion of the purchase of snow removal emergency route signs and standards by the Mayor and Council yesterday but the proposal finally won approval.

Council voted to buy the signs and standards and pay for them from the Contingent Fund after both Police and Fire Commissioner Philmore Fleming and Street Commissioner John J. Long said they did not have the money in their budgets.

There will be 100 signs for designating the emergency routes where no parking or other regulations will be enforced. The signs will be approximately 18 inches by 24 inches, red and white in color and will be purchased from the State Roads Commission, council said.

Fleming in making the proposal said that the snow removal ordinance will not hold up unless streets are designated by signs.

Later in the discussion about where the signs would be placed and by whom, Fleming turned to Long and said "You are going to put them up."

Long took exception and said to be by service in the Air Force. He was an aerial photographic officer attached to General Stillwell's Army in Burma for 27 months. He attained the rank of captain.

Sutton has been active in civic and religious affairs since coming to Cumberland. He is a member of the Official Board of LaVale Methodist Church, and is institutional representative and Assistant Scout Master of the boy scout troop sponsored by his church.

Sutton resides at 5 Campground Road, LaVale, with his wife and son, Robert.

Fleming that "You are not going to tell me what to do in my department. The Mayor and Council can order me to do it but not the Police Department."

Fleming said it was his idea that the snow removal ordinance effort is a cooperative one on a 50-50 basis between the two departments. He said he was "not asking members of his police force to put up the signs but will do all he could to enforce it."

Water Commissioner G. Ray Light said that before the city buys signs, it better decide who would put them up or, if not, recall the snow removal ordinance for consideration and "throw it out."

As finally approved, the Mayor and Council ordered the purchase of the street signs and standards from the Contingent Fund. It was not specified but apparently understood that the Police Department will determine sites of the signs, enforce the ordinance and the Street Department will put the signs in place.

Earlier, Finance Commissioner Lucile Roeder asked if the snow emergency routes could be shown on a map and publicized so residents will know exactly where they are. The list is so long, she explained, that nobody can remember them all.

There was general agreement something along this line should be done. City Engineer Charles R. Nuzum said a few maps had been "colored in" and distributed to some departments. Fleming added he thought notice of the routes is desirable and cited a recent case in court where a "yield right-of-way" or "stop" sign had not been advertised and the magistrate, in Fleming's opinion, was right in dismissing the charge.

City Plans To Enforce Pole Sign Law

The Mayor and Council gave public notice yesterday that it will make a real effort to enforce an ordinance prohibiting the placing of advertising signs on utility poles within the city limits.

An ordinance to that effect has been on the books for some time but not rigidly enforced. One reason is that violators have put the signs on the poles and never contacted the city concerning their intent.

The matter was brought to council's attention by Robert C. Petersen, manager of the Cumberland Chamber of Commerce. He said the people who put signs on poles never take them down. Once the ordinance is enforced, they would get the idea and cease the practice, he added.

The safety factor was also cited in the discussion. Workers for local utility companies could be injured because of nails driven into poles. Utility companies urged the city's cooperation in the matter some time ago. Street Commissioner John J. Long said the city cannot place signs on poles under the agreement with utilities and terms of the ordinance.

The signs also detract from the appearance of the city, it was pointed out.

Francis Humbertson, who operates a local salvage company, appeared before council to protest the low amount of liability bond required of some firms and individuals in razing properties while he carries a heavy insurance load.

He said if the bonds, returned after work is performed, are going to be $10 or $25 "then it is no use for me to carry $350,000 in insurance."

Humbertson said he was not trying to stop anybody from getting that type of work but felt a "fair deal" is in order.

The Building Code provides anyone razing properties must furnish a liability bond to the city, the amount determined by the city engineer. City Attorney William R. Carscaden commented he thought the bond should be higher in sections like Baltimore Street rather than in outlying streets when buildings set back from the street.

A further comment about the city not being responsible where a job was not completed, brought comment from Robert Little Ebert, co-chairman of the Taxpayers' League, that what is needed is a "performance bond" rather than a liability bond. It doesn't make any difference where such work is done, the city should be interested, Ebert said.

The heaviest rainfall in the world is said to occur on the southern slopes of the Himalayan Mountains in northern India.

The bidding:

Opening lead: King of ♠

North and South arrived today at a reasonable slam contract which appeared to hinge on a favorable trump split. When this failed to come off declarer was apparently set. However, a bit of determination plus some favorable side distribution combined to help him to resolve matters successfully.

The bidding was short and direct. South opened in the third seat with one heart. When North jumped to game, South decided to shoot it out for slam in the hope that his partner's distributional features would provide a favorable fit. West opened the king of spades. Declarer won and played two high trumps. Had hearts broken, declarer's anxieties would have been virtually at an end. But now he saw prospects were dim since a diamond loser appeared inevitable.

Heroic efforts were required and declarer started out to give it the old college try. Everything must be directed toward forcing a lead away from the king of diamonds thru an end play.

He cashed the ace and king of clubs, ruffed a club in his hand, then ruffed a spade in dummy, and ruffed another club in his own hand, establishing the fifth club in dummy. He then ruffed his remaining spade and when West's queen fell, there appeared a glimmering ray of hope. In the absence of a false card, West's remaining cards—with the exception of the queen of hearts—were all diamonds.

Declarer cashed the good club on which both he and West discarded diamonds and then he gave up the lead with dummy's remaining trump. West, in with the queen of hearts, was left without choice as to the return. The low diamond lead was taken by dummy's queen and the ace of diamonds won the last trick.

Local Band Runnerup In Regional Contest

The "Gentlemen of Note" band comprised of 14 area musicians was first runnerup in the eastern regional contest held at Ashtabula, Ohio, last Friday.

Sponsored by the American Federation of Musicians, the event was held to select the best new dance band of 1961. The regional event was won by Ted Armen and his 15-piece band of Erie, Pa., which barely nosed out the local group.

The contest was held at the Grotto Hall Ballroom in Ashtabula. Members of the local group traveled to the Ohio city by chartered bus which was sponsored by Local 787, American Federation of Musicians, which has 250 members in the Cumberland area. Dr. Ward M. Cole, head of the music department at Frostburg State Teachers College, is the band director and Roy Knotts, guitarist of the group, is business manager.

The "Gentlemen of Note" was completely reorganized last February 19. Dr. Cole has played with Ted Weems Orchestra, Fred Waring's Pennsylvanians and with the Seattle Symphony Orchestra at Radio City Music Hall in New York.

Members of the band include

Bill Twigg, Jack Stitely, John Reed, Chuck Thompson, and Dave Windish in the sax section; Bob Stangle, John Ritchie, Bob Apsey, Joe White and Dr. Cole in the brass section; Garland Deter, pianist; Dave Berry, drums; Ace Humbertson, bass, and Roy Knotts, guitar.

The band has a library of more than 300 arrangements of various types of dance music.

W. Va. Plans Non Resident Student Study

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (UPI)—A study to determine how many out-of-state youths are getting an education in West Virginia at the expense of Mountain State taxpayers was ordered Monday by legislative subcommittee.

The subcommittee told Legislative Auditor C. H. Koontz to begin immediately on a study of West Liberty, Shepherd and Concord College registration records to determine how many students are actually West Virginia residents and entitled to reduced tuition rates.

Koontz told the subcommittee he thought it unusual that during a period of declining population there should be an increase in college enrollment, particularly at those institutions near the state's borders.

Give W. Va. Address

Koontz and House Minority Leader George Seibert, R-Ohio, said there were indications that some students illegally give a West Virginia address when they register in order to escape the extra $300 - a - year tuition fee charged out-of-staters.

Seibert moved to direct the State Board of Education and the West Virginia University Board of Governors to require students to prove by affidavit that they are West Virginia residents and entitled to the reduced rates.

However, Seibert agreed to withdraw his motion when Sen. C. H. McKown, D-Wayne, and Senate President Howard Carson suggested the investigation.

Koontz' study showed that 20,731 students enrolled in West Virginia - supported colleges and universities for the 1961 fall term, an increase of 8 per cent over 1960. The report also showed that nearly half the increase was absorbed by WVU and 22 per cent by Marshall University.

Defer Action

Another subcommittee postponed until the 1963 Legislature submission of proposed revisions of West Virginia's election laws. An identical report was prepared for the 1961 session but filed too late for consideration. House Speaker Julius Singleton or Morgantown said the report was too voluminous to be considered at the 30-day budget session starting Jan. 10.

A third subcommittee continued generally its study of the Public Service Commission and its rate - making policies. The subcommittee said it would wait for further instructions from the Legislature's two main interim committees meeting here Jan. 8-9 to determine whether a full-blown study should be initiated.

Social Security Office Begins Evening Hours

For the next three weeks the local office of Social Security Administration, 6 Pershing Street, will be open from 5 until 7 p.m., each Tuesday, for the convenience of persons 65 years of age or older who work during the day, according to Walter R. Campbell, manager.

Active Local Shrine Group Begins New Publication

Ali Ghan Shrine Temple, now in process of expanding the Shrine Country Club to the tune of $250,000, preparing for the largest class in its history to be initiated next month, and having achieved the membership in North America by Burland E. DeBolt. It is published under the auspices of the 1961 divan headed by Lewis J. Ort, illustrious potentate, and including J. Wallace Close, chief rabban; Woodward D. Pealer, assistant rabban; C. William Hetzer, high priest and prophet; Robert E. Moore, oriental guide; William Torkington, treasurer, and Robert E. Stallings, recorder.

There has been an overwhelming response to the sale of debenture bonds to defray the cost of the country club expansion, according to Mr. Ort, with area Shriners already having purchased more than $150,000 worth of the bonds. Shriners east of Hancock are not being asked to participate in the bond purchases, since there is a possibility that a new Shrine club will be built in the Hagerstown area in the not-to-distant future.

Ali Ghan will hold next month's record-breaking ceremonial in its own auditorium, marking the first time in its 35-year history that it has not had to use a public theatre for its ceremonial work.

Following the lead of the Committee of 100 on the Federal City, which withdrew last week as one of the sponsors, the Co-ordinating Committee of the Potomac River Valley Monday withdrew as one of the sponsoring groups of a public meeting to be held Tuesday night on river dam construction planning.

Army Engineers are scheduled to appear at the meeting and outline proposals for construction of dams on the Potomac. The Committee of 100 which first withdrew from the list of some 15 organizations sponsoring the meeting charged that only questions which were written out in advance and screened were to be answered by the engineers.

HOW'S YOUR IQ?

by JIM CONLON

QUESTION:

An irresponsible driver claims he doesn't need insurance because he has no property. If he had an accident, he'd leave the country. How far would he be pursued for judgement?

ANSWER:

No limit; he is liable wherever he and his property can be found. But the only one who "pursues" him is the person who holds the judgement or his lawyer.

HOLLYWOOD

By Louella Parsons

HOLLYWOOD — A circus extravaganza to be built along the lines of the unforgettable "Around the World in 80 Days" with top stars doing big and small roles and an agenda that sounds like a travelogue, is the multi-million dollar idea Phil Yorda and Nicholas Ray have sold to Paramount. Under the banner of their newly-formed Security Pictures set-up, the spectacle will be released by Paramount.

"The super-circus saga will be filmed partly in Europe where the circus had its origin," report the Messrs. Yordan and Ray, "also in the Near and Far East—and in Hollywood. We expect to get underway early in '62."

There's a story behind Jane Fonda's eye-dazzling emerald and diamond earrings worn in "The Chapman Report." Valued at $30,000, they were willed to Jane by her mother, Frances Brokaw Fonda, when Jane was too young to wear them. She was 12 when her mother died.

The earrings had been in a vault until Jane's recent trip to New York when she took them out. There's a sequence in "The Chapman Report" wherein she's supposed to be dressed to the nines, so Jane decided to wear the beautiful earrings which mean so much to her, for the first time.

Charles Wick, lawyer-millionaire and sometimes producer of TV and movies, is currently the hero of the faculty of the burned out John Thomas Dye School. He has made arrangements for the 283 pupils to finish their term at the Westwood Community Church. Mrs. Wick is a Sunday school teacher there and it was she who suggested the idea to her husband.

I don't know whether Mr. Wick is such a hero to the 283 students or not. I have a feeling there's a majority group who wish he'd minded his own business and if they were burned out of the classrooms — well, they were burned OUT.

Tennessee Williams, who usually remains mum about the movies of his plays because he can't get around to liking them, asked Hal Wallis to show him a print of "Summer and Smoke" in a projection room in New York. He arrived alone, sat through the entire running of the Laurence Harvey-Geraldine Page starrer with no indication of how he felt about it, then headed for Western Union.

Today, Larry received the following wire: "Am ecstatic and delighted."

"Likewise," beams Harvey.

There's nothing wrong with Montgomery Clift's eyes when he looks at Susan Kohner and he doesn't need an analyst to tell him how he feels about her. That serious eye trouble that sent him packing from "Freud" in Munich to a specialist in London, is cleared up.

On Susan's birthday last week, the "Freudians" all gathered 'round to celebrate including John Huston who hosted the dinner at the Walterspell cafe. Everyone is wondering how Monty's obvious new-found interest in Susie will affect her long romance with George Hamilton—if it does.

Paula Prentiss and Dick Benjamin, who teamed up to get married last month, teamed up to buy Colette's "The Lilacs" and plan to produce it as a play. When Paula and Dick met and fell in love when they were students at Northwestern they were voted the university's best actors. Since then, Paula has clocked as one of MGM's most promising young actresses and Dick moved backstage on Broadway where he is co-producer with Kermit Bloomgarten of "The Gay Life."

Paula won't play in "The Lilacs," she'll just co-produce with her bridegroom.

Word out of the sneak preview of "Sweet Bird of Youth" in Santa Barbara is that Geraldine Page and character actor Ed Begley all but steal the picture, Ed already being nominated for "supporting actor" by the postcard critics.

Begley will be around to take bows just a few weeks longer. He heads to London to make a movie of "Phone Call for Andrew Quade," a TV drama in which he starred in England earlier this year. Leading lady is Margaret Johnston and Derek Gwynne the producer.

Mr. Goldberg's Neck Is Out

Forecasting economic activity is a hazardous undertaking even for the specialist. But now apparently the job of Secretary of Labor requires that he be willing to risk his reputation as a prognosticator of unemployment trends.

James P. Mitchell, when he was the head of the department, promised to eat his hat if unemployment didn't drop below three million several years ago. He lost, but settled for a cake in the shape of a fedora.

His successor also has been guessing wrong on a drop in the unemployment rate which has been holding just under seven per cent for the last 11 months, according to the government's controversial manner of figuring. No betting man, Goldberg says he's merely "putting my neck out again" by predicting the rate will go down this month.

He is basing his guess on new government statistics that show business has broadened its stride—a new record high in personal income, an increase in housing starts, a spurt in retail sales and a gain in orders for durable goods.

Mitchell had an excuse for losing—the steel strike lasted much longer than he anticipated. Goldberg has less reason for missing. The economy seems to be sailing along on an even keel and the 1961 hurricane season and auto strikes are at an end so they cannot be blamed in November. The odds thus appear favorable that the Secretary's neck may be spared.

These Days

By George E. Sokolsky

The Brutality Of Cops

Two conflicting reports are available: one shows the constant increase of crime and the lowering ages of criminals; the other is the report of the Civil Rights Commission that police brutality is widespread and should be curbed. The statistical report of the FBI on criminal activities is a statement of fact; the report of the Civil Rights Commission is a statement of opinion.

Let us take New York City where I live as an example. Crime has increased so that parks are closed at night; men and women are mugged on principal streets at night; pocketbook snatching is not unusual; certain streets are unsafe for anyone not only because of individual assaults and robberies but because of gang fights.

These conditions are so in many large Northern and Eastern cities. The very kindly Father Hesburgh, President of Notre Dame, who is a member of the Civil Rights Commission, writes:

"1. The actions of most policemen demonstrate that effective law enforcement is possible without the use of unlawful violence.

"2. Nonetheless, police brutality by some state and local officers presents a serious and continuing problem in many parts of the United States. Both whites and Negroes are the victims, but Negroes are the victims of such brutality far more, proportionately, than any other group in American society."

The job of a policeman is to maintain order on his beat and to prevent criminals from molesting decent citizens. The policeman should be free to beat up a hoodlum with a nightstick and to shoot to kill, if necessary. Father Hesburgh originally came from the Bronx and if he would walk through the streets of his childhood, he would be shocked by the conditions that exist there.

The confusion in this report arises from the general tendency to drag the Negro question into all discussions on any subject, as though that question alone mattered in our society. I prefer to call it the Negro question because that is what it is.

Sociologists and others prefer to hide behind fancy words, but the fact of the matter is that the discussion is about Negroes and Puerto Ricans.

It is not unusual for new immigrants to find it difficult to adjust to the new and, in many respects, novel situations in which they find themselves when they are uprooted from their traditional mores. The family structure rapidly disintegrates and youth lives in an undisciplined atmosphere. This was true of the Irish immigrants; of the Russian-Polish-Rumanian and other Jews who settled in such a section as the East Side of New York; it was true of the early Italian immigrants who organized such societies as the Black Hand and the Mafia; it was true of the Southern Negro who moved North in the hope of bettering his conditions and found that he was unwelcome despite the Northern boast of a superior racial attitude.

There are many reasons why the newer migrant groups (and I include the Negroes in this category) become local problems. Adjustments are not easy. My youth was spent under precisely the conditions that all the reports deal with. Recently, I visited the Educational Alliance, the settlement house which was a second home to me in those days. The fellowship of older men and women included a number who are now distinguished and wealthy. One of the friends of my childhood has contributed a quarter or a half million dollars for good works—the amount is unimportant because he told me that he expects to give it all back before he dies and his wife said Amen to that.

But when we were boys we were very poor and many of the parents engaged in marginal trades. The police were not brutal but they kept us in order. Those who did not obey their parents and the police in time joined gangs, as some others of us joined settlements. Those who joined gangs became major criminals and are among the best-known criminals and racketeers of the past half century. Others became priests, rabbis, doctors, lawyers, judges, businessmen and even college professors.

The policeman can be a good friend but he must have a strong arm. When the nightstick was taken from him, great mischief was done to boys and girls. Father Hesburgh should know that from his childhood, as I know it from mine in the big city.

Kennedy Faces Terrible Dilemma In World Today

By David Lawrence

WASHINGTON—Nobody who aspires to high office should envy President Kennedy these days. He faces a terrible dilemma in the world situation. He has plenty of competent advisers but not one of them can feel the responsibility of decision as he does.

To outline the dilemma is in itself not easy. It is full of hypothetical considerations. Hanging over the whole discussion is a menacing fact—the Soviet Union isn't the equal of the West in military strength today but will be in three or five years. What do you do in the meantime? How resolute do you get? Do you force a showdown now even if it means war? If you don't, will you run the risk of destruction three or five years hence?

Khrushchev, of course, is moving constantly. He isn't hesitating. He moved in to build a wall in East Berlin and didn't encounter any military opposition. So he goes on. Now he starts harassing the allies along the highway from West Germany and West Berlin. He threatens Finland, but his threat is really aimed at Norway and Sweden. He would like to make them all Soviet satellites. Also he is probing the real unity of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization, which could fall apart if the United States shows the slightest sign of faltering in its pledge to come to the rescue of Western Europe the moment that it may be attacked.

NATO members—the other 14 countries—are doing some serious thinking, too. Is it time, for instance, for NATO to acquire its own nuclear weapons and be ready to use them instantly without waiting for one man in America to make up his mind how to retaliate with nuclear weapons if a ground war has been started and if at any moment the enemy might decide to use nuclear weapons?

Mr. Eisenhower, as president, made a fateful decision. The Russians aren't sure today that Mr. Kennedy will follow that policy. The last administration—in vague and implicit but nevertheless understandable language—said the United States wouldn't depend on conventional forces to fight a war over Berlin or Western Europe. This implied the use of nuclear weapons. The Kennedy administration, in contrast, emphasized recently a buildup of ground forces when the East Berlin crisis arose. Did this mean a retreat in policy? Moscow may have thought so.

It is denied here that this move meant an abandonment of the use of nuclear weapons to protect Western Europe. It is insisted that America will carefully probe the situation, step by step, and will be governed by what happens. This doesn't satisfy the military commanders of various countries in Western Europe who want something more explicit.

One hypothetical question posed is this: "Suppose the Soviets with a nuclear thrust destroy Western Europe and then demand that America withhold any measures of retaliation, what would America do? Back of all such queries is the dreaded alternative—should the Western Europeans make a deal with Moscow now? It all adds up to one simple fact—the Western Europeans feel they don't know exactly what the United States would do in an emergency of this kind. The North Atlantic Treaty itself says an attack on one is an attack on all. This certainly commits the United States to instant retaliation. But suppose all Europe were first destroyed in such an attack? Would the United States fight then and risk its own destruction?

So the situation is getting back to the old argument over whether America or Western Europe can wait and take the first blow. The debate, however, has been changed somewhat recently. It now is conceded that, if an enemy is conceded that, if an enemy is sensible to wait for the first blow. This is called "pre-emptive war" and it is described as a proper measure of defense.

If, moreover, in three years the enemy has equal nuclear power and can destroy America, what will Moscow then do by way of bluff and pressure on NATO, on Scandinavia, and on America, believing that the United States will certainly not wish to risk its own destruction? One knowledgeable expert on the western side puts it this way:

"When three years have gone by, people on our side will have to recognize that we can only win by striking the first blow. At that stage either you achieve a disarmament agreement or you try to live in a world in which you have to be alert every moment and ready to strike that first blow to save yourself."

What is the real answer, therefore, to the kind of agonizing appraisal that is going on behind the scenes in government today? It is the expenditure not of a few thousands of dollars but of many hundreds of millions and even billions, if necessary, to devise ways and means of telling the peoples behind the Iron Curtain what the dilemma is and what it is going to be three or five years hence. The peoples there must restrain their rulers in order to save themselves. For it is plainly the Soviet government which has committed aggressions and continues to threaten the peace of mankind. When that story really reaches minds and hearts everywhere, peace will inevitably be achieved by the concerted will of all peoples, and neither side will be talking of a "first blow."

Saturated, Unsaturated-What's The Difference?

By Dr. Theodore R. Van Dellen

The fat content of many foods, including margarine, oils, and shortenings, has created many problems in this industry. Some companies are beginning to advertise their product as medicines whereas others are continuing to stress taste, regardless of the consequences. The public is in between.

The problem centers about the relationship of certain fats in the diet to the cholesterol content of the blood. Individuals who have had a heart attack or stroke have high cholesterol levels, but whether this is the cause has not been settled.

All fats contain a combination of saturated fatty acids such as palmitic and stearic; polyunsaturated fatty acids such as linoleic; and monounsaturated acids like oleic. The saturated are solid and increase the cholesterol level of the blood. For this reason they are implicated in the development of hardening of the arteries. Animal fats, butter, cream, cheese, and eggs are rich in this ingredient.

Oleic acid has no influence either way, even though it is unsaturated. Linoleic acid tends to reduce the amount of cholesterol in the blood and products rich in this substance are preferred because they have the additional medicinal effect.

Most unsaturated oils are liquid and the majority come from vegetable seeds. But when an unsaturated fat such as linoleic is hydrogenated through heat, it becomes solid and saturated. This occurs when making margarine. Most manufacturers get around this complication by solidifying small amounts and adding enough of the unheated oil to gain the desired consistency to spread on bread. In this way, a higher linoleic acid content is retained.

But this information is difficult to determine from the label, especially when it mentions "Made from liquid vegetable oils or unsaturated oils." The latter may be oleic, which has no influence on the cholesterol level. A study reported in the Journal of the American Dietetic Association recently showed that the linoleic acid content of 11 margarines ranges from 8 to 35 per cent and the oleic acid from 20 to 60 per cent. It is the linoleic content that counts.

Walker Used Troop Newspaper To Spread Political Propaganda

By Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON—The military "Fifth Amendment" which Gen. Edwin Walker invoked when he was being cross-examined by the Army inspector general's office is Article 31 and states:

"No person subject to this chapter may compel any person to incriminate himself or to answer any question the answer to which may tend to incriminate him."

It was refusal of witnesses to answer questions under the Constitutional Fifth Amendment which brought so much acid criticism from the late Sen. Joe McCarthy. Gen. Walker invoked the military equivalent when questioned about the use of his troop newspaper, the Taro Leaf, in influencing the voting of his men.

Gen. Walker's invoking of the military Fifth Amendment and his ducking of various questions from the inspector general was what led Sen. Strom Thurmond of South Carolina, his No. 1 defender, to maneuver so Walker would not have to testify at the Senate hearings scheduled for this week which suddenly were called off and re-scheduled for January.

Walker had turned the troop newspaper into a partisan political publication, ordering it to reprint John Birch literature including outright attacks on democracy. One reprint charged that the "conversion of our republic into a democracy and the preparatory steps for making it a mobocracy are already far advanced."

Biased "Index"

The general, who commanded U. S. troops at Little Rock but has now become the darling of certain Southern segregationists, supplied his troops with an index into the voting records of Congressmen, and in the troop newspaper invited his men to consult the index to determine how their Congressmen voted.

"You can phone Flak M-613 to have your Representative's record determined before your vote is cast," Walker wrote.

He also promoted the index among independents. At a meeting attended by officers' wives, Walker declared: "You can look at your Senator's rating and find out what percentage American your Senator is."

The index, according to the official finding of the inspector general, was biased to represent Gen. Walker's idea of a good Senator.

"Each military person," the Taro Leaf declared, "influences at least 100 civilians. . . your first mission is to know what the conspiracy is . . . and then inform others."

Anyone who disagreed with Gen. Walker unfortunately was part of the "conspiracy." It is against the law for a general on active duty to try to influence the politics of his troops. He, like any federal official, is subject to the Hatch Act. However, inquiry at the Justice Department revealed that no move had been made to prosecute Gen. Walker for violation of that act.

"Reflects Conservatism"

When Lt. Gen. Frederick J. Brown, acting for the inspector general, examined Walker regarding the use of his troop newspaper to influence the politics of his troops, he first read to Walker the Army regulations forbidding Army newspapers to take editorial sides in a political campaign. Then General Brown said: "The editorial calls the attention of the men of the 24th Division to the fact that this (voters index) is one of the easiest ways of determining your Senator's or Congressman's record by consulting this index; that a copy is available to all of them and you can even call on the phone to have your representative's record determined before your vote is cast. Do you consider that this editorial is in compliance with the Army regulations that I have just read to you?"

Walker — "This was obtained through other than military channels. I kept no secret that I used it for what it was worth. I have no further comment, General."

Brown — "My question was: Do you consider that this editorial here complies with the Army regulation that I have just quoted?"

Walker — "I don't refer to this regulation when the decision was made to use . . . this editorial. I have nothing further to add, Sir."

Brown — "Now, do you consider it complies with Army regulations?"

Walker — "I have nothing to add, Sir."

Brown — "I asked you a question. You can invoke Article 31 if you don't care to answer it."

Walker — "It is not open-and-shut to me even right now, General, in stating one way or the other. . ."

Brown — "General Walker, please, I am not going to put up with quibbling. You have already testified it in an editorial. Let's not start off on another of these. . ."

Walker — "I stand on Article 31, General."

Later Walker admitted that the voting information he offered his troops was biased, but General Brown had a difficult time pinning him down.

Brown — "Now, do you consider that this (index) is an unbiased publication?"

Walker — "I have no way of knowing, Sir. It depends on exactly who reads it and what they think of it. What I know of the people who prepared it, I would say they represented a conservative approach."

Brown — "Does that mean it has a conservative bias?"

Walker — "Yes, I guess it does."

Brown — "Would you present a liberal index and advise them to study both of them? If so, I would like to know about it."

Walker — "I would say liberal information is certainly available to them."

Brown — "Did you make it equally available with the conservative index?"

Walker — "I know of no such publication, General."

Brown — "Did you make comparable information available to them?"

Walker — "No, Sir."

Note — More on the military "Sixth Column" will follow shortly.

From 3,000 Feet

By John Crosby

A picture in the newspapers the other day showed Mayor Wagner and Federal Housing Chief Robert C. Weaver in a helicopter hovering over and inspecting the city's housing program. That's where the city's housing program looks best — from 2,000 feet. Even better from 3,000 feet. Too bad we can't all live at 3,000 feet, singing "Cabin in the Sky" to ourselves, because that's where New York looks and works best.

New York from an airliner at five miles in the sunlight is the most beautiful thing in the world. Up close — ugh! The city's housing, in fact, reminds me of a professional Irishman who has resided for thirty years on Third Avenue. "I love m'native land," he'll tell you mistily, "from a distance." And indeed, from 3,000 miles, Ireland is an enchanting vista of green hills and quaint people. It's only when you get up close you begin to wonder.

Similarly those huge housing and redevelopment projects that are intended to eradicate the slums and provide a bit of heaven for the working man. From a helicopter anyway, Mayor Wagner, who lives in an eighteenth century house, Gracie Mansion, is far enough away so that the people look like ants, the dreary absence of ornament and sameness of the architecture is soothed by distance and the juvenile delinquents skulking in the corridors are invisible.

As a matter of fact, those great conurbations of brick and glass look even better on the drawing-boards where they represent a sort of intellectual game for the architects and designers, who, I notice, never seem to live in them. I recall a "Person to Person" interview of a modern architect lived in a rented Spanish revival house, which could not be architecturally defended on any grounds except perhaps comfort.

Most of those immense — and I must admit — colorful glass edifices that line Park Avenue and stay lit all night make lovely Christmas cards. Foreign visitors, I'm told, are enormously impressed by them. In fact, those glass buildings are the closest thing New York has to the Grand Canal of Venice as a tourist attraction. In fact, that appears to be what they're designed for — to look at from a distance, not to work in or live in.

New York now has a great deal of middle income cooperative housing they can't get rid of. It isn't that there aren't any middle income people to move in; it's just the middle income people can't stand "the institutionalized look" of the apartments which were not designed for people to live in but for builders to make money out of. One builder, who has defaced New York with many hideous buildings, has been quoted as saying that buildings are nothing more than machines to make money out of. In Europe, he'd be thrown in jail, not for saying it, but if he tried to practice such an evil thought.

One of the most stimulating new books on this subject is Jane Jacobs' "The Death and Life of Great American Cities," which is a head-on attack on practically all city planning as it has been preached for years. "There is a wistful myth that if we only had enough money to spend — the figure is usually put at a hundred billion dollars — we could wipe out all our slums in ten years, reverse decay in the great gray belts that were yesterday's suburbs, anchor the wandering middle class and its wandering tax money, and perhaps even solve the traffic problem," writes Mrs. Jacobs.

"But look what we have built with the first several billions. Low income housing projects that have become worse centers of delinquency, vandalism, and general social hopelessness than the slums they were supposed to replace. Middle income housing which are truly marvels of dullness and regimentation, sealed against any buoyancy or vitality of city life."

Mrs. Jacobs has studied neighborhoods (and lives in one in Greenwich Village) from the people level. She thinks in terms of neighborhoods, of streets (which she thinks have been mangled), or parks (which she points out are vastly overpraised and some of which are the real centers of delinquency). There's now a big brouhaha to get an architect on the City Planning Commission. I'm all for that. But even more than an architect, we need some planners who will live in the projects they plan on street level and stay out of helicopters where human scale is lost altogether.

Most city planning, to quote Mrs. Jacobs, is not "the rebuilding of cities. This is the sacking of cities." By, I might add, the real estate speculators and the builders.

Food Stamp Program Is Successful

Officials Praise Results In W. Va.

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The federal experimental food stamp program started about six months ago in a section of West Virginia and seven other states apparently is living up to expectations and then some.

Officials of the Agriculture Department said Monday that the program has not only been relatively free on any administrative problems, but also has shown itself to be a financial success.

Designed to improve the diet of the needy, 135,400 persons participated in the program last month, alone. They received food stamps valued at $2.8 million in negotiable food items.

McDowell County is the West Virginia area where the coupons are being experimented with. Sections of Illinois, Kentucky, Michigan, Minnesota, Montana, New Mexico, and Pennsylvania also are participating.

In McDowell County, W. Va., last month, 12,749 persons were helped under the program. Their food stamps were valued at $200,103.

Under the program, the needy are given stamps that can be used in purchasing food staples. Those participating are not allowed to continue in the federal surplus food plan which does not allow any recipient a choice in his food.

The federal officials said the cost of program now is running about as much as a million dollars a month below predictions. At the time it was initiated, the costs had been estimated at between $3 and $4 million each month.

It also was noted that only four serious violators have been detected so far. Most of the violations involved stores which exchanged non-food items for the stamps. There have been no reports of this in West Virginia, according to officials there.

President Kennedy must decide within the next two months whether the food stamp concept will blossom into one of the big welfare programs of his administration.

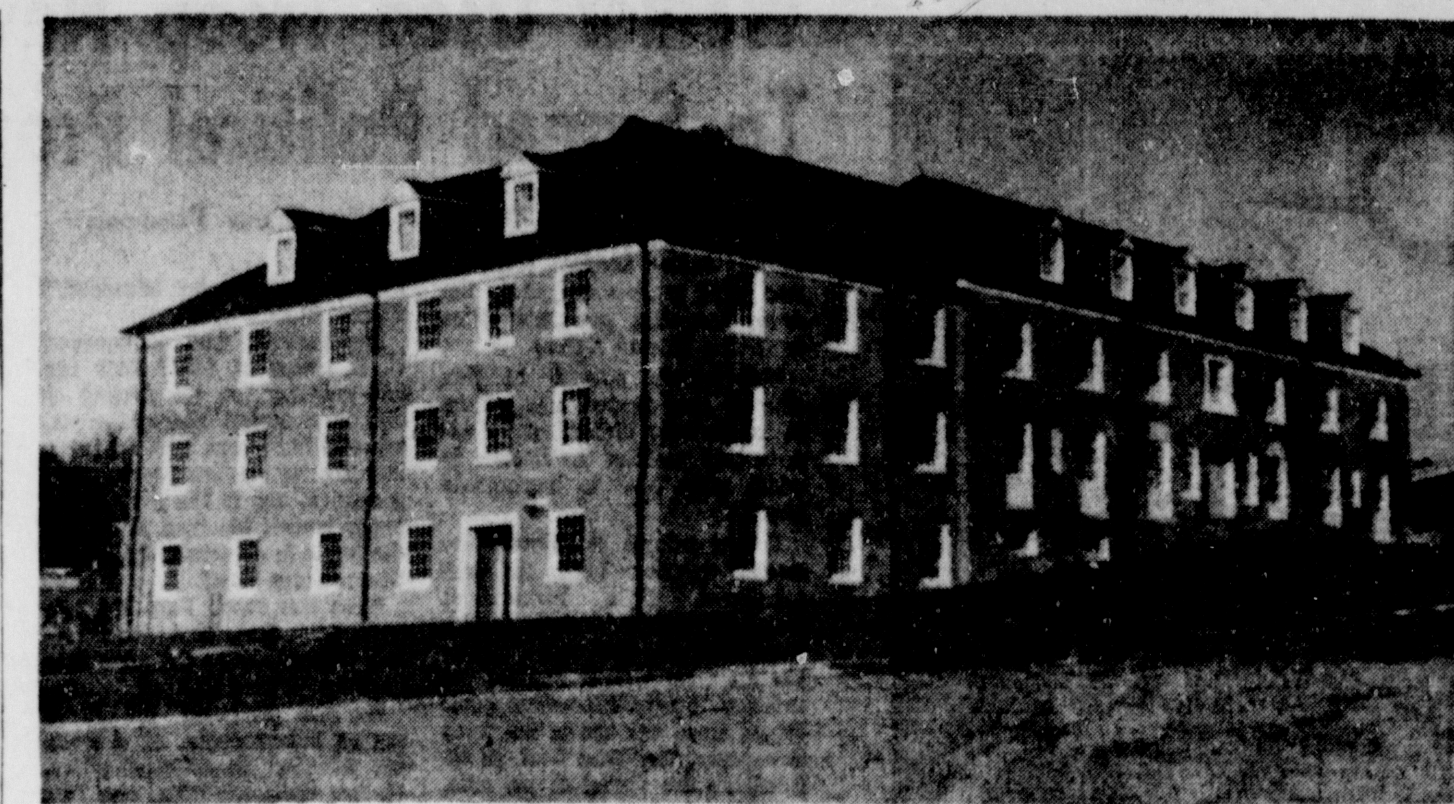

Agriculture Secretary Orville H. Freeman already has indicated it might be extended into economically depressed areas, where unemployment often remains high even when the national economy is prospering.

However, the final verdict apparently depends on data still clicking through electronic computers at the Agriculture Department.

The machines are tabulating information gleaned from interviews with 600 families, which is expected to show whether the free food actually improved the diets and increased food consumption of those who receive it.

Valley Hi Science Teacher Named Botany Chairman

LONA CONING — The President's People to People Hobbies Committee, Nature Studies chairman, George F. Miller of Upper Montclair, N. J., appointed Kendrick Yale Hodgdon, of LaVale, as chairman of the Botany committee and temporary chairman of the Conservation committee.

Started by President Dwight D. Eisenhower in 1956, when he addressed a conference of leading American citizens in Washington at his invitation, to seek a plan for building new roads to international understanding, the plan has been continued under President John F. Kennedy.

The People-to-People program is enlisting in the cause of peace, active support of thousands of independent private groups and institutions and millions of Americans acting through person-to-person communication in foreign land. A voluntary, non-partisan effort of private American citizens groups, the committees carry out the objectives of mutual understanding covering a broad range of human interests. The Hallmark institute has contributed a million dollars to this program.

Mr. Hodgdon will be meeting to discuss common problems and to work out solutions in the interests of a cohesive program of non-governmental effort to maintain peace. The wide range of committees in art, youth, service groups, hobbies, music, books, sports, handicapped, business, farming and community affiliations gives most Americans the chance to participate in the program and contribute to the success of its objectives, partnership for peace.

Mr. Hodgdon, Valley High School biology and chemistry instructor, is a candidate for his Doctor's degree in Science education, majoring in Botany and Biology with Dr. Core at West Virginia University, Morgantown, W. Va.

Active in conservation and nature work, he is a member of the National Association of Biology Teachers, National Science Teachers Association, a member of the American Institute of Biological Sciences, Southern Appalachian Botanical Club, Audubon Society Allegheny County Bird Club, and is an official bird bander for the federal government.

Major League Clubs Draft 35 From Minors For Record $680,000

Yanks, Braves Farm Systems Are Hit Hard

Orioles Get Short,
Virgil; Athletics
Grab Gino Cimoli

By JACK HAND
Associated Press Sports Writer

TAMPA, Fla. (AP)—The talent-hungry major leagues drafted 35 minor league baseball players Monday for a record outlay of $680,000 in the annual raid on their rivals' farm systems.

The Los Angeles Angels, Minnesota Twins and Cleveland Indians each took four men and Kansas City, Baltimore, Washington and the Chicago White Sox each drafted three.

Big Farms Hit Hard

Hardest hit were the sprawling farm systems of the New York Yankees and Milwaukee Braves, each of whom lost six players. The San Francisco Giants' farms were clipped for four players.

The selections ranged from such familiar names as veteran outfielder Gino Cimoli, taken by Kansas City, to an unknown infield-outfielder Steven Selsky, whose only pro experience has been in an instructional league. The White Sox picked Selsky from the Los Angeles Dodgers' Spokane list.

Washington had the No. 1 pick and took shortstop Ken Hamlin as expected. The 26-year-old Hamlin cost only $25,000 this year, a sharp mark down from the $75,000 the Angels had to pay for him last year in the expansion draft.

20 Veterans Drafted

Of the 35 players selected, 20 were veterans at $25,000 each, and were first-year men who started playing pro ball in 1961. The freshmen cost only $12,000 each. Last year the majors drafted 23 for $497,000, and only six of them were first-year men.

The idea of the first-year draft is to keep the rich clubs from hoarding talent but most of them protect their top prospects by advancing them to a big league roster, immune from the draft.

After Washington took Hamlin to fill the vacancy created by the Army call of Bob Johnson and the sale of Coot Veal, the Philadelphia Phillies grabbed Billy Consolo, former Boston Red Sox $60,000 bonus baby. Consolo, now 27, hit .283 last year at Vancouver, a Milwaukee farm.

The 32-year-old Cimoli, a major leaguer since 1956, played with Pittsburgh and Milwaukee last season, but was sent to Vancouver in October.

Twins Get Banks

Minnesota took third baseman George Banks from the Yankee chain after he hit .296 with 30 home runs at their Binghamton, N.Y., farm. The Twins also drafted John Swango, former Baltimore bonus pitcher from the Yankees at Richmond, where he had a 1-1 record after undergoing an arm operation. The Orioles also took veteran Ozzie Virgil for infield insurance.

Among Cleveland's four draftees was ex-White Sox pitcher Don Rudolph, an 18-9 winner at Indianapolis. St. Louis took only right-handed pitcher John Anderson, 14-9 at Rochester.

Of the two new clubs in the National League, The Houston Colts and New York Mets, each was allowed to take two veterans at $25,000 each after the other clubs had finished. The Colts took left-handed pitcher Dean Stone, formerly with Washington, and outfielder Johnny Weekly from the Giants' organization. President George Weiss of the Mets selected two right-handed pitchers, Charles (Bob) Moorhead from Indianapolis and Aubrey Gatewood from Dallas. Gatewood like Hamlin was acquired by the Angels last year in the expansion draft.

Hannan Fanned 254

Of the 15 first-year players, the boy with the most impressive record was pitcher James Hannan, who had a 17-7 mark at Olean, N.Y., in class D, and struck out 254 in 196 innings. He went to Washington. The highest first year average belonged to outfielder Bob Chance, acquired by Cleveland after he hit .371 at El Paso, Tex., in class D.

Boston, Detroit, Pittsburgh and the Yankees did not draft any players.

Crimson Satan Tops Two-Year-Old Colts

NEW YORK (UPI)—Crimson Satan, who finished the year in a blaze of glory by winning the Garden State stakes and the Pimlico Futurity, Monday was voted the leading 2-year-old colt of 1961, by the Thoroughbred Racing Associations.

FIGURE IN BASEBALL TRADES—Four players, left to right, Minnie Minoso, Joe Cunningham, Bobby Locke and Jerry Kindall figured in trades made yesterday by major league clubs. Minoso, of the White Sox, was sent to the St. Louis Cardinals for Cunningham. Minoso, who will be 39 Wednesday, is a 12-year major league outfielder. Cunningham, 30, is a first baseman-outfielder. Locke, a pitcher, for the Cleveland Indians, was swapped to the Chicago Cubs for infielder Kindall. Locke, 27-year-old righthander, had a 4-4 record in 37 games last season. Kindall, 26, who plays second and shortstop, batted .242 and hit nine homers in 96 games for Chicago in 1961. (AP Photofax)

Cunningham Is Swapped For Minoso

Indians Trade Locke For Cubs' Kindall

TAMPA, Fla. (UPI)—The Chicago White Sox Monday night traded veteran outfielder Minnie Minoso to the St. Louis Cardinals for Joe Cunningham in baseball's third inter-league deal in the past 24 hours.

It was an even swap with no cash involved.

Minoso, one of the most popular players in White Sox history, batted only .280 last season. It was the first time the 39-year-old outfielder fell below the .300 mark since 1955.

Cunningham alternated between first base and the outfield with the Cardinals for the last five seasons. The 30-year-old New Jersey native batted .286 in 113 games for St. Louis last season.

Earlier Monday, the Cleveland Indians traded pitcher Bobby Locke to the Chicago Cubs for infielder Jerry Kindall. And Sunday night when the current major league meetings started here, the Boston Red Sox sent shortstop Don Buddin to the Houston Colt 45's for shortstop Eddie Bressoud.

Minoso broke into the majors with the Cleveland Indians in 1951 and was traded to the White Sox that same year. The speedy Cuban remained with the White Sox until 1957 when he was traded to the Indians in the same deal for pitcher Early Wynn.

However, the White Sox re-acquired Minoso in 1959 in a seven-player deal.

Minoso enjoyed his greatest season in his rookie year of 1951 when he batted .326 and led the American League in triples with 14. He also led the AL in stolen bases three times and has appeared in eight All-Star games.

During the University of Oklahoma's visit to New York for the Army game, Dr. Mike Willard, the team physician, visited Jack Dempsey's Restaurant and growled amiably to the waiter, "Tell Dempsey that Willard's here."

Spotlighters Keep County Wardens Busy

Night Hunters Fail To Recover 16 Deer

A rash of spotlight hunting is causing wardens in Allegany and Garrett counties to work day and night.

Last week, a work report of one of the wardens showed 91 hours. A total of 16 deer have been found shot by night hunters, who failed to recover the whitetails, and at this season of the year spotlighting gives the wardens more difficulty than all other violations combined.

With the deer season scheduled to open Saturday, hunters are urged to purchase their deer stamp early in the week. Last year all license agents sold out of deer stamps the night before the season opened.

All hunters should check the hunter's guide issued with each license for necessary information and contact the local wardens if the information is not available.

The State Police Barracks at LaVale is not listed in the hunter's guide but deer will be checked there as an previous years. Last year the State Police set a record when they checked 354 deer.

On opening day in 1960 wardens estimated that there were approximately 20,000 deer hunters in Allegany county. They were from 11 different counties and a large number were from the metropolitan areas of Baltimore and Washington. The 424 bucks killed on opening day was more than the total slain during the next six days.

Miami To Play In Liberty Bowl

PHILADELPHIA (UPI) — The University of Miami Monday accepted a bid to meet Syracuse University in the third annual Liberty Bowl here Dec. 16.

Ambrose (Bud) Dudley, president of the Liberty Bowl Association, said Miami was picked from among a dozen possible choices to play the Orange in the 100,000-seat Philadelphia Stadium.

The announcement of Miami's acceptance was made simultaneously by Dudley here and by Jack Harding, Miami athletic director, in Miami, Fla.

Syracuse accepted a bid to the annual classic last Wednesday. It wound up the season with a 28-13 victory over Boston College last Saturday to post a 7-3 record.

It Was 42 Years Ago 1960 Deer Kill Marks Snyder Bid For Fight Football Highlights

By C. V. BURNS

NEXT WEEK'S heavyweight championship fight between Floyd Patterson and Tom McNeely (who's he) is a reminder that Cumberland came close to landing the Jack Dempsey-Jess Willard scrap 42 years ago.

John W. "Maryland my Maryland" Snyder had the fight all but wrapped up and headlines on newspapers throughout the country told of George "Tex" Rickard, the famed promoter, selecting Cumberland as the logical site for the match.

The colorful Snyder, who passed on just 12 years ago this week, had planned to build an outdoor bowl, similar to Boyle's Thirty Acres in New Jersey, in the vicinity of the Six Mile House, west of Cumberland.

Rickard came here to attend a banquet in his honor and old "Tex" was given a rousing welcome.

We mention these facts because Fred Driscoll, chairman of the Allegany County delegation in the House of Delegates, made inquiry the other day as to the name of the governor who refused to sanction the fight on the ground that it would have brought too many undesirable into the state.

Fred said he heard one fellow mention Gov. Albert C. Ritchie banned the fight but that was untrue as Mr. Ritchie did not take over as the state's chief executive until 1920 and he and Snyder were the best of friends.

Gov. Emerson Harrington vetoed plans to stage the fight in Allegany county.

The bout was staged at Toledo, Ohio, on July 4, 1919 and Dempsey was crowned the new heavyweight champion of the world when Willard was so badly beaten he failed to answer the bell for the fourth round.

Cumberland received more nationwide publicity in its bid for the Dempsey-Willard fight than any other event that we can recall. The coverage was coast-to-coast and lasted for about six months.

A TUB THUMPER for next week's fight says that Patterson pays his sparring partners $25 a day, $50 if they stagger him and $100 if they knock him down. That's what the man said.

PIERRE SEVIGNEY, Gallaudet College graduate, who teaches woodworking and serves as assistant football coach at the West Virginia School for the Deaf, finished as runner-up in the 167-pound class in the wrestling tourney at the Deaf School Olympic Games, held this year at Helsinki, Finland.

MARYLAND'S deer season opens Saturday and whitetails will be legal through December 9. West Virginia's deer season is Dec. 4-9 while the season in Pennsylvania runs from Dec. 4 to 16.

Pennsylvania's bear season opened yesterday and closes Saturday. Bears must be at least one year and you judge them by their size. As a rule, cubs weigh between 50 and 80 pounds, second year bears are in the 120 to 150 pound class.

Maryland does not have a bear season; in fact, it has few bears.

All-time records were established last year for deer kills in Allegany, Garrett, and Washington counties during the gunning season.

Garret's official kill was 802, Allegany's 780 and Washington 410 for the 7-day season.

The 424 kills in Allegany county was also a new record for opening day.

HERE ARE some of the highlights of the 1961 football season in the tri-state area:

Longest winning streak—Romney, nine games.

Longest losing streak—Fredrick, seven games.

Best record—Romney 9-0.

Tie games—One, Moorefield 13, Petersburg 13.

Field goals—None.

Highest score of season: LaSalle 52, West Virginia School for Deaf 13.

Greatest Comebacks—Romney from 3-42 in 1960 to 9-0 in 1961. South Hagerstown from 2-62 in 1960 to 7-2 in 1961.

Team shut out Most—Fredrick, three times.

Teams scoring most shutouts—Keyser 5, Romney 5.

Winless teams—None. Two last year, Circleville 0-6 and North Hagerstown 0-8-1.

Safeties—Southern 2, Keyser 2, LaSalle 1.

Biggest surprises of the season: LaSalle holding Fort Hill to a 7-6 score and Ridgeley limiting Romney to a 6-0 win. Also Fredrick knocking off Fort Hill, 13-0, and Beall spilling Allegany, 6-0.

CARLYLE JOHNSON, who is identified around the race tracks as the guy who wears dark glasses and sports pink and yellow shirts, is now a West Virginia racing steward and is working at the current Waterford Park meeting.

Johnson last appeared at Fairgo as a chart-caller and feature writer for the Morning Telegraph and Daily Racing Form and is known on the race tracks from New England to Florida.

A serious looking fellow and a natty dresser, Carlyle has a never-ending supply of funny stories and he really kept 'em laughing when he worked in the press box at Fairgo.

Johnson is the kind of fellow who keeps everybody happy and there's never a dull moment when he's around.

JCs To Attend Game

Members of this year's Jaycees team of the Hot Stove League will meet at the Central YMCA Wednesday at 7 p. m., where transportation will be provided to the Globetrotters game at the Allegany High School gymnasium. Players are requested to bring their uniforms.

OFF AND RUNNING—Eddie Arcaro, the jockey, and his wife pack their traveling clothes at their Garden City, Long Island, home as they depart for Japan and Australia. Eddie will ride in a big Australian race along with other famed jockeys.

Deadline For Entry In Cage Leagues Tonight

The deadline for entry in the High School and Men's Recreation Basketball League is tonight when the two circuits will meet at City Hall to make final organizational plans.

By-laws of both leagues will be discussed and approved and entry fees must be paid at tonight's sessions.

Practice drills have been assigned at Fort Hill boys gym next week. They are Monday, 7 p. m., PBC (High School) and PBC (Men's); 8 p. m. Dressman's Market and Cresapton Cutrate; 9 o'clock, Allegany Hi-Y and Wise Chips.

Wednesday, 7 p. m. Wilson-Pugh and Marine Reserve; 8 p. m. DeMolay and Catherman's; 9 o'clock, Shooks Raiders.

New York Mets will train at the old Yankee site at St. Petersburg next spring. The Yanks have moved to Fort Lauderdale.

5 Clubs Make Overtures For Draft Rights To Davis

'Skins Will Take Ernie Or Gabriel

By BOB SERLING
United Press International
WASHINGTON (UPI) — At least five National Football League teams have made overtures to the Washington Redskins for the draft rights to Syracuse's Ernie Davis or quarterback Roman Gabriel of North Carolina State, it was revealed Monday.

These players probably will be the 1-2 choice in next Monday's NFL draft meeting at Chicago and Washington — with a 0-10-0 record — will have first crack at one of them.

Sought By Five Clubs
Redskins coach Bill McPeak said Pittsburgh, New York, Detroit, Cleveland and Los Angeles all have asked him, in effect: "Would you give up your first draft choice if we traded you an outstanding, established player?"

McPeak said his answer in all five cases was: "Our ears are open."

"We've received no specific offers," he added. "One thing is certain: We won't give up a chance to get a player like Davis unless someone offered us an absolutely top-notch, established star who could fill what's obviously our major need — a fast running back."

McPeak said most of the teams seemed interested primarily in Davis, but that Gabriel's name also was mentioned.

Jets Win Over San Francisco

PITTSBURGH (UPI)—The Los Angeles Jets raced to a 10-point halftime lead and rolled to a 97-76 win over San Francisco Monday night in the opener of an American Basketball League doubleheader.

Leah was high man for the game with 23 points. Swartz was close behind with 20. Jim Francis had 12 to top the Saints.

Lear was high man for game with 23 points. Swartz close behind with 20. Jim Francis had 12 to top the Saints.

Washington owner George Preston Marshall was asked the obvious question: If the 'Skins traded away its rights to the Syracuse Negro, what about his virtual promise to draft a colored player?

Marshall Comments
"I've said it before and I'll say it again," Marshall snapped. "We'll draft a Negro because he's the best available player, not because he's a Negro."

McPeak, who has made no bones about Davis being his first pick, indicated that the Redskins might want more than just a top NFL veteran in return for their first draft choice.

"My idea of a good trade would be our first pick for an established star plus their own first choice," Bill said.

"We'd lose Davis that way, but we'd pick up a first class player and we'd still have a shot at an outstanding college back."

35 Players Appear On Jackets' Roster

Thirty-five players appear on the roster of Moorefield High School's basketball team which opens its season December 8 at home with Franklin High's Panthers, according to Coach Jonathan Paugh.

Kurowski Retained As Oilers Manager

TAMPA, Fla. (UPI) — The Tulsa Oilers of the Texas League Monday signed George (Whitey) Kurowski, former star third baseman of the St. Louis Cardinals, to manage the club again in 1962. Kurowski piloted Tulsa to a second-place finish last season. He is one of the most successful managers in the minors, having finished in the first division 10 out of the last 11 seasons.

Mel Harder, the pitching coach of the Indians, who has been the "Man of the Year" in Cleveland baseball for 1961, has been a player or coach with Cleveland for 32 years. He won 223 games as a pitcher.

George Kraft's 43 Is Season High In Shuffle League

George "Prunty" Kraft has set a new high for the season in the Allegany County Men's Shuffleboard League by scoring 43 points as the Cumberland F.O. Eagles copped three games from the Outdoor Club.

The previous high for the season was a 40 credited to Joe Love, of the Knights of Columbus.

Walter Oglebay was high for the Outdoor Club with a 13.

Purple Heart Club swept three games from the Hi Dee Club last evening. Bill Laurent paced Purple Heart with 22 tallies while Robeson led the losers with nine points.

Loop To Hold Track Meet At Frederick

Grid Championship Trophy Is Presented To South Hagerstown

Fort Hill, tied for the runner-up spot in the final standings, landed four players on the all-star football team selected by the coaches yesterday at the annual fall meeting of the Cumberland Valley Athletic League at Parkview Inn in Berkeley Springs, W. Va.

The Sentinels, coached by Charles Lattimer, placed two backs and two linemen on the 13-man mythical eleven. Allegany High's Campers, along with North and South High of Hagerstown and Martinsburg, along with two griders chosen, while Westminster's Owls snared one berth. Only Frederick High's Cadets failed to land a spot on the first team.

The all-star selections:

ENDS—Tim Bartock, Martinsburg and Dwight Guyton, South Hagerstown.

TACKLES—Gary Henry, Fort Hill and Dennis Sherman, Martinsburg.

GUARDS—John Kinzer, Westminster and Ronnie Kline, North Hagerstown.

CENTERS—Walt Merrill, Fort Hill and John Roy, Allegany.

QUARTERBACK—Phil Petry, South Hagerstown.

HALFBACKS—Colin Smith, Fort Hill, Joe Henderson, North Hagerstown, Mike Harvey, Allegany.

FULLBACK—Roy Collins, Fort Hill.

Two Unanimous Choices

Two of the players were unanimous choices of the coaches—Phil Petry, South's versatile quarterback, and John Kinzer, Westminster's hard-charging guard who blocked four punts during the past season.

The second team is comprised of George Stern, Westminster, fullback; Ronnie Sharpe, South High; Dale Feaser, Westminster; and Jack Williams, Fort Hill, halfbacks; Ronnie Manges, Fort Hill, quarterback; Dick Bayles, Frederick and Skip Barnhart, North High, ends; Terry Chaney, North High and Francis Frye, Frederick, tackles; Dick Sindy, Allegany and Marvin Baker, South High, guards; and Bob Resh, South High, center.

Honorable Mention went to Charles Corbin, Martinsburg; Bill Baylis, North High; Jerry Reid, Frederick; John Reuter, Martinsburg; Mel Arbaugh, Westminster; Tom Vichy, Frederick; Dennis Wachter, North High; Charles Davis, Allegany; Jim Bell, South High; Gary Brothers, Westminster; Wellington Donahue, Fort Hill; Al Resh, South High; Carroll Zepp, Westminster; Gary Newkirk, South High; Don Gregory, Martinsburg; Dick Roberts, Martinsburg; Stanley Radcliffe, Fort Hill; Roland Willard, Frederick and Ray Chaney, South High.

Meet Dates Scheduled

Other items on yesterday's CVAL agenda included the selection of the date and site of the 1962 league track meet which will be held again at Frederick on May 5, beginning at 1:30 p. m. The meet appropriated $100 to defray expenses of the meet this season.

(In an unofficial move outside the league's jurisdiction, five member schools in District One also decided the district Class A and Class AA track meets will be held jointly at Frederick on May 19.

South High's Rebels, who finished undefeated season in the seven-team circuit, was awarded the football championship trophy which was accepted by Doug Cochran, South's head coach. It marked the first time since the Rebels joined the CVAL six years ago that they had captured the grid title.

The league coaches also voted to ban the swapping of films of football games by member schools either with members on non-member teams during a current playing season. The motion amended a previous league rule which had allowed member schools to trade films of games played with one another.

Medals for members of last year's all-star basketball and football teams were presented to the principals of the players' schools and the league voted to continue the practice of awarding medals and certificates to the all-star football nominees.

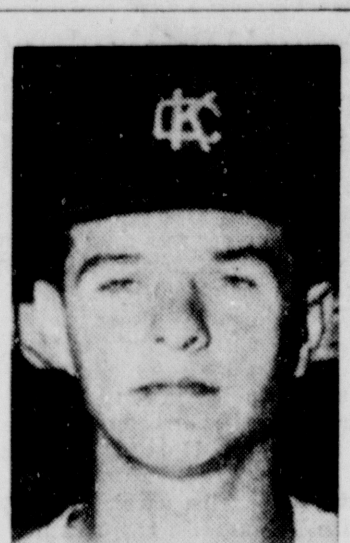

Principals Read Statement

At the conclusion of the meeting, the principals of the member schools read into the minutes of the session a statement which had obvious reference to Westminster's removal of its football team from the field in the fourth quarter of its game here with Allegany this year.

The action, described by Owls officials as a protest to poor officiating, came in the game at Fort Hill stadium on November 3.

The statement reads:

"The principals of the member schools of the CVAL, as the governing body, reiterate that the underlying purpose of high school athletics is to promote wholesome and desirable attitudes of cooperation, fair play and sportsmanship. Consistent with this belief the principals emphasize that

NO. 1 DRAFT PICK — Ken Hamlin, above, 25-year-old shortstop of the Toronto Club of the International League, was chosen by the Washington Senators in Tampa, Fla., yesterday at the opening of the annual major league draft of minor league players. Hamlin also played with Los Angeles last year. He is shown in the uniform of the Kansas City Athletics in March 1960.

LAWRENCE, Kan. (UPI)—The Kansas Jayhawks voted Monday to play in the Bluebonnet Bowl football game Dec. 16 at Houston, Tex.

Kansas, which tied for second place in the Big Eight Conference, has a 6-3-1 record. No opponent has been named, but Rice has been invited provided it defeats Baylor Saturday.

Despite a mediocre record, Kansas' three losses were by a total of five points — Texas Christian, 17-16; Colorado, 20-19, and Missouri, 10-7. The tie was with Wyoming, 7-7.

The coach and his staff must exemplify these qualities of sportsmanship.

"Therefore all CVAL personnel must recognize their responsibilities in respecting and accepting the decisions of the officials who are in full charge of any game."

Paper Contract Talks Resume In Washington

Federal Mediator Enters Negotiations

WASHINGTON (AP)—Union and company negotiators resumed talks Monday on a new contract with the West Virginia Pulp and Paper Co., and then recessed for separate discussions Monday night with a federal mediator.

A company representative said the negotiations will be resumed Tuesday, probably in the afternoon. The talks so far, he added, have led to no agreement on provisions of the company's offer.

The talks were resumed after a recess taken Nov. 18. Harry Scott of Covington, Va., vice-chairman and regional director of the United Papermakers and Paperworkers Union, said then that the company's offer was "not even worth considering."

Involves 3,500

The old contract expired earlier this month, but the approximately 3,000 workers involved are still on the job at plants in Luke, Md., Covington, Va., and Williamsburg, Pa.

D. C. Valentine, labor coordinator for the company, has said the firm's offer was made both on a one and a two-year basis.

He said the company offer on the one-year basis, which also would stand as the first year of a two-year pact, included a general wage increase of about 5 1/2 cents an hour for the Covington and Luke mills, and 4 cents for the Williamsburg plant.

He said larger contributions toward insurance were proposed at Williamsburg than at the other two mills.

No Change In Offer

Other provisions of the company offer related to four weeks vacation after 23 years of service instead of the 25 now required, an increase in company contributions to the group insurance program, and holiday hours.

Valentine said the second year provision included a 3 per cent general wage increase to be effective Nov. 19, 1962, plus the improved pension plan to be effective April 1, 1963, and a modernization adjustment at the Luke plant.

Valentine said there has been no change in the company's offer during the negotiations.

Vets Will Still Have Office Here

Cumberland and the surrounding area will not be without a local office to handle veterans' affairs when the contact office here of the Veterans Administration closes next month.

An office of the Maryland Veterans Commission is located on the first floor of the County Building on Union Street and is qualified to handle any type of service for the veteran or his dependents.

Recently it was announced the local VA office would be one of the 161 field offices in the country which are scheduled to be closed December 29, and many persons in this area believe veterans will have to travel to Baltimore in order to receive assistance or information.

Although the local office of the Maryland Veterans Commission is a state agency, it still handles any type of service to residents of nearby West Virginia and Pennsylvania.

At the present time Cumberland is the only city in the state besides Baltimore to have a field office of the Veterans Administration. The other VA field offices in the state were closed a number of years ago.

In addition to the services provided by the Maryland Veterans Commission office here, the Veterans Administration plans to send a contact officer to Cumberland periodically.

Thomas G. Kilduff is in charge of the local office of the Maryland Veterans Commission.

LaVale Women Planning Dystrophy Drive Canvass

Members of the Ladies Auxiliary of the LaVale Volunteer Fire Company will canvass that community November 29 and 30 and December 1 to collect funds for the Muscular Dystrophy campaign now in progress.

Mr. Elda Schell is chairman of the project and will be assisted by Mrs. Leola Knieriem, Mrs. Gwen Pryor and Mrs. Elizabeth Zembower.

The women will go from house to house in the three-day period and will visit the residents about 7 p. m.

Mrs. Schell said it would be appreciated if the residents of LaVale turn on their porch lights on the three evenings.

Virgil A. Parker, chief of the Cumberland Fire Department is president of the Allegany-Garrett County Chapter of Muscular Dystrophy.

He said last night it is hoped the residents of LaVale will be generous in their contributions in the drive against the disease which hits both young and old. Canisters were placed throughout the two counties sometime ago and will be collected early next month. A few of the canisters, he said, have been filled by residents.

Volunteer firemen of the two counties are assisting in the campaign.

Auto Struck By Drifting Freight Car

A local contractor escaped injury yesterday afternoon when the car he was operating was struck by a drifting freight car on the Knox Street crossing.

City police said John S. Cook, 860 McMullen Highway, was stopped on the Western Maryland Railway's Track 2, waiting for the traffic light to change, when the accident occurred about 4:10 p. m.

The vehicle was struck and pushed about 24 feet by a freight car which started moving down the tracks as crews slammed the door after unloading it.

Officer Kenneth L. Henry investigated the accident.

A few minutes later, a driver swerved his car to avoid striking two boys on bicycles and hit a utility pole on Greene Street at the Blue Bridge intersection.

The driver of the car, Lloyd R. Reed, 17, of RFD 3, Keyser, suffered a cut lip when his face hit the steering wheel.

Officer Robert E. Shoemaker investigated the accident which occurred about 4:15 p. m. as young Reed, making a left turn, was faced with the choice of "hitting the boys or the pole."

Permit Issued For Remodeling

A permit to remodel, repair and extend a frame dwelling at 131-133 Springdale Street was issued by the city yesterday to the Allegany Building Loan and Savings Company.

The Mayor and Council last week gave the owners of the property 60 days, or 90 days if certain provisions were met, to complete repairs on the structure.

CLARENCE SHUTTER

Attorney Dies In Hospital; Ill Six Weeks

Clarence Shutter, 68, well-known local attorney, died yesterday afternoon in Memorial Hospital where he had been a patient the past week. He had been in ill health for about six weeks.

Mr. Shutter was a graduate of Gettysburg (Pa.) College and attended the University of Michigan. He received his law degree in 1920 from Dickinson Law School, Carlisle, Pa.

He was admitted to the Maryland Bar in 1921 and opened a law office on Greene Street in 1922. He later moved to the Law Building on South Liberty where he practiced for 35 years. When that building was razed he moved his offices to the present location in the Liberty Trust Building.

Mr. Shutter was born in Newport, Pa., January 26, 1893, a son of the late Charles and Mary (Fleisher) Shutter.

He was a member of Loyal Order of Moose Lodge 271 and Fraternal Order of Eagles Aerie 245.

He is survived by his wife Pearl (Dickens) Shutter; one sister, Mrs. Walter Yost, Germantown, Pa., and one brother, G. Emery Shutter, Westminster.

The body will be at the Stein Funeral Home. Funeral arrangements are incomplete.

Tree Planting Program Cited By Forester

Seedlings Available At State Nursery

District land owners who are interested in growing trees on their property are reminded they can get them free of charge through the Maryland Department of Forests and Parks.

Now is the time to order the tree seedlings, according to W. A. C. Irvin, district forester, who said nearly two billion trees were planted this past Spring in Garrett, Allegany, Washington and Frederick counties.

The forester said the minimum number of trees an individual can order is 250, although the supply is unlimited. A thousand trees to an acre is the number usually planted, he said.

When a land owner indicates he would like to get some of the trees supplied by the state nursery at Harman, Harry Hartman, assistant district forester, goes to the site and checks on the topography, soil, location, slope and other aspects which enter into the planting picture.

The assistant district forester will recommend the species of tree which is suited to the planting site. Timber species along with secondary species are encouraged for the prospective planter.

The land owner agrees to use good forestry practices in raising the trees which are delivered to the property owner in the early Spring in time for planting.

Machinery Available

The district forester said the department has machinery available for planting the seedlings or the owner can plant them himself.

A land owner interested in the program may place his order by calling the district forester's office at the Court House here or contact his office at the Court House in Oakland or Winchester Hall, Frederick.

The department, said Mr. Irvin, forces a good supply of trees to take care of conservation needs in the district. Orders are taken as late as March 1 each year, he added.

Last Spring a total of 1,866,000 trees were planted including 1,88,000 in Garrett County; 338,000 in Allegany; 174,000 in Washington and 166,000 in Frederick.

Youths Jailed In Motor Case

Three Baltimore youths last night were ordered committed to the County Jail in default of fines imposed on motor vehicle violations.

The youths, Benny Lee Brown, 19, and James A. Moore and Henry E. Brown, both 17, were given hearings in Flintstone before Magistrate Russell V. Nierman.

Benny Brown pleaded guilty to unauthorized use of a motor vehicle and driving without a license and the other two youths pleaded guilty to unauthorized use.

Brown was fined $25 on the unauthorized use charge and $15 on the other charge and was committed to jail for 42 days in default of fines. The other two youths each were fined $25 and costs and given 26 days in default.

The youths were arrested Saturday night on U. S. Route 40 by Trooper John W. McFarland.

ALBERT J. ERICKSON

Will Represent Engineers At Meeting Here

Will Discuss Plans For River

Albert J. Erickson, assistant chief of the Potomac River Basin Branch of the U. S. Army Corps of Engineers, will be one of the representatives at the public meeting here Wednesday night for discussion of the four basic plans to meet the water conservation needs of the river basin.

The Upper Potomac Industrial Development Company is sponsoring the meeting to start at 7:30 p. m. Wednesday at the Allegany Community College on Frederick Street. Retired Judge George Henderson will serve as moderator at the meeting.

Mr. Erickson joined the Corps of Engineers in July 1956 as a junior engineer trainee in the Washington office. After completion of the training program in January 1958, he joined the staff of the Potomac River Basin Branch. He is concerned principally with report preparation and economic analysis of plans and projects. He became assistant chief of the branch this year.

He attended Iowa State University, where he was graduated with a bachelor's degree in civil engineering.

During the Korean conflict, Mr. Erickson served in the Army and is an active reserve officer. He is married and resides with his wife and daughter in Alexandria, Va.

More Water Line Leaks Are Found

Four positive and two probable water leaks were located here last week in the water waste survey being held for the Water Department.

The four leaks located were wasting 100,000 gallons of water each day. Indications of two other leaks estimated to total 28,000 gallons a day were found, according to Water Commissioner G. Ray Light.

Located and repaired were a 25,000 gallon a day leak from an abandoned service line in the 800 block of Columbia Street, a 15,000 leak in a service line inside the curb in the 300 block of Independence Street, a 30,000 service line leak between the curb and main in the 500 block of Centre Street and a 30,000 gallon leak in an abandoned service line in the 200 block of North Centre Street.

Indications have been found of two leaks, each estimated at 14,000 gallons a day, on Bedford Street, between Mechanic and Centre Street, and on a line which services George, Centre and Henry streets.

These two leaks were indicated by instruments which measure the day and night flows of water on the lines. John C. DePanning, project engineer for the Pito-meter Associates, will locate the actual leaks by following the lines, using a stethoscope device modified for water leak location use.

Actual leaks located last week totaled 100,000 gallons and previous breaks brought the total of waste water recovered to 260,000 gallons daily.

Water Department crews, Mr. Light said, are repairing leaks as they are found.

Canal Skating Area Program Is Progressing

Second Dam May Be Completed Today

Crews and equipment furnished by the National Parks Service and the City of Cumberland yesterday completed one and part of the second dam needed to convert a 2,000 foot section of the C&O Canal here into an ice skating area.

The first dam at the foot of Roberts Street was completed by early afternoon and the sluice box which will control the level of water in the skating rink was in place by late afternoon at the second dam off Offutt Street.

C. R. Nuzum, city engineer, said earth for the second dam should be in the compacted by noon today if the weather is favorable.

The Parks Service provided 20 men and trucks, in charge of Edwin M. Dale, superintendent, while the city provided a loader, dozer and trucks.

The water level in the dams will be controlled by rectangular wooden boxes built into the earth structure. Heavy boards sliding in slots can be raised or lowered as needed to hold the water level at from three to four feet.

Since the canal recreation area drains some 650 acres of land, no trouble is anticipated in maintaining the water level.

If it were necessary, the city could fill the canal from a water line laid below the canal bed.

The park service will install several benches for the use of skaters in the area, Mr. Nuzum was told.

Mr. Dale plans to come here Wednesday to inspect the completed structures and to attend a hearing here that night when plans of the Corps of Engineers for the development of the Potomac River Basin will be explained.

Area Lawyers Meet Dec. 9 In Frederick

The State Bar Association will hold a program on "Civil Litigation — Trial Techniques" for Western Maryland lawyers on Saturday, December 9 in Frederick.

The program will be held at the Francis Scott Key Hotel and will begin at 10 a. m.

The afternoon session will feature a lecture by William B. Somerville, a member of the Baltimore bar and the son of Mr. and Mrs. William M. Somerville, 110 Washington Street.

Mr. Somerville will lecture on protecting the record on appeal, including objections to evidence, trial motions and requests for instructions.

Similar programs, also in cooperation with local bar associations, will be held Friday in Easton, Hyattsville and Baltimore.
